DEDICATION

CIVILIZATION identifies itself with the unbroken continuity of man's accomplishments. The commonwealth flourishes in accordance with the constructive genius of its members, for the attainments of the group are tantamount to the comprehensive summation of individual activity. Progress is but the manifestation of man's creative endeavor in culture, and possessing a wealth of material goods is the eloquent declarative of the work of its members.

In the social order, as in any organized groups, there are those who by virtue of genius and perseverance stand foremost in their several lines of endeavor, and from them society seeks guidance in the councils of state, in industry, and in religion. Without its pillars the social order cannot stand.

In the past, in recognition of such individuals and their services, both church and state conferred titles upon such of its faithful servants as were deemed worthy of distinction. Time, however, has witnessed the abandonment of such artificial devices.

Society, conscious of its debt, discharges its obligations in a more adequate currency—the intangible gift of immortality. Graven on the altars of time are the recollections of those faithful sons who have served and passed on, but whose works remain for posterity to emulate and cherish.

In tacit recognition of such services, and as but a feeble expression of our gratitude and respect, to the noble sons of Arkansas we humbly dedicate the Razorback of 1931.

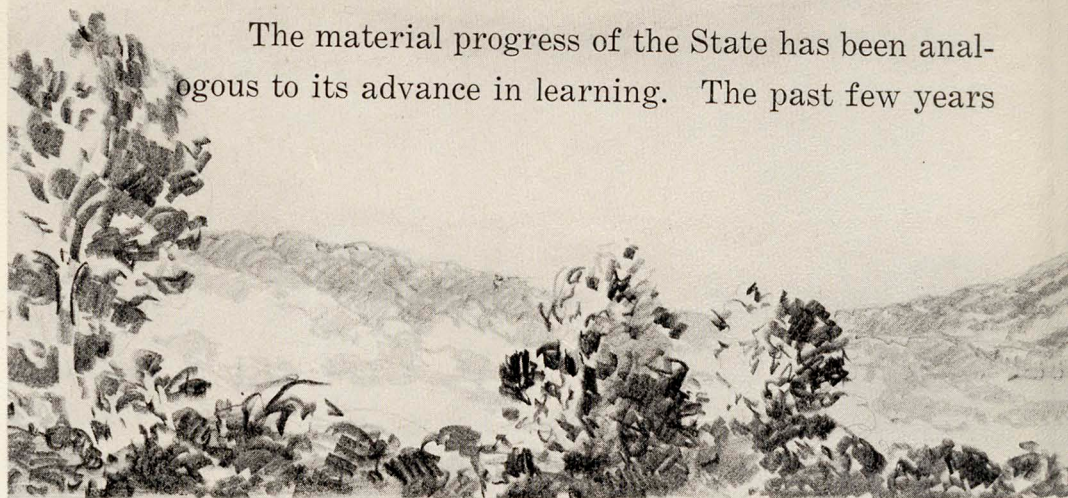

FOREWORD

THAT the State of Arkansas has progressed in every respect during the last two or three decades is indubitable. From being the target of antiquated jokes pertaining to its backward condition, it has advanced to such an extent in education, agriculture, engineering, commerce, wealth, population, and political prestige that it is now one of the foremost states of the South.

In education, Arkansas has made steps forward that are nearly incomprehensible. From being considered as one of the most deficient in scholarship of the forty-eight states, it has ascended to a position second to few. The University of Arkansas was but recently classified as ranking tenth among approximately one hundred and sixty American universities.

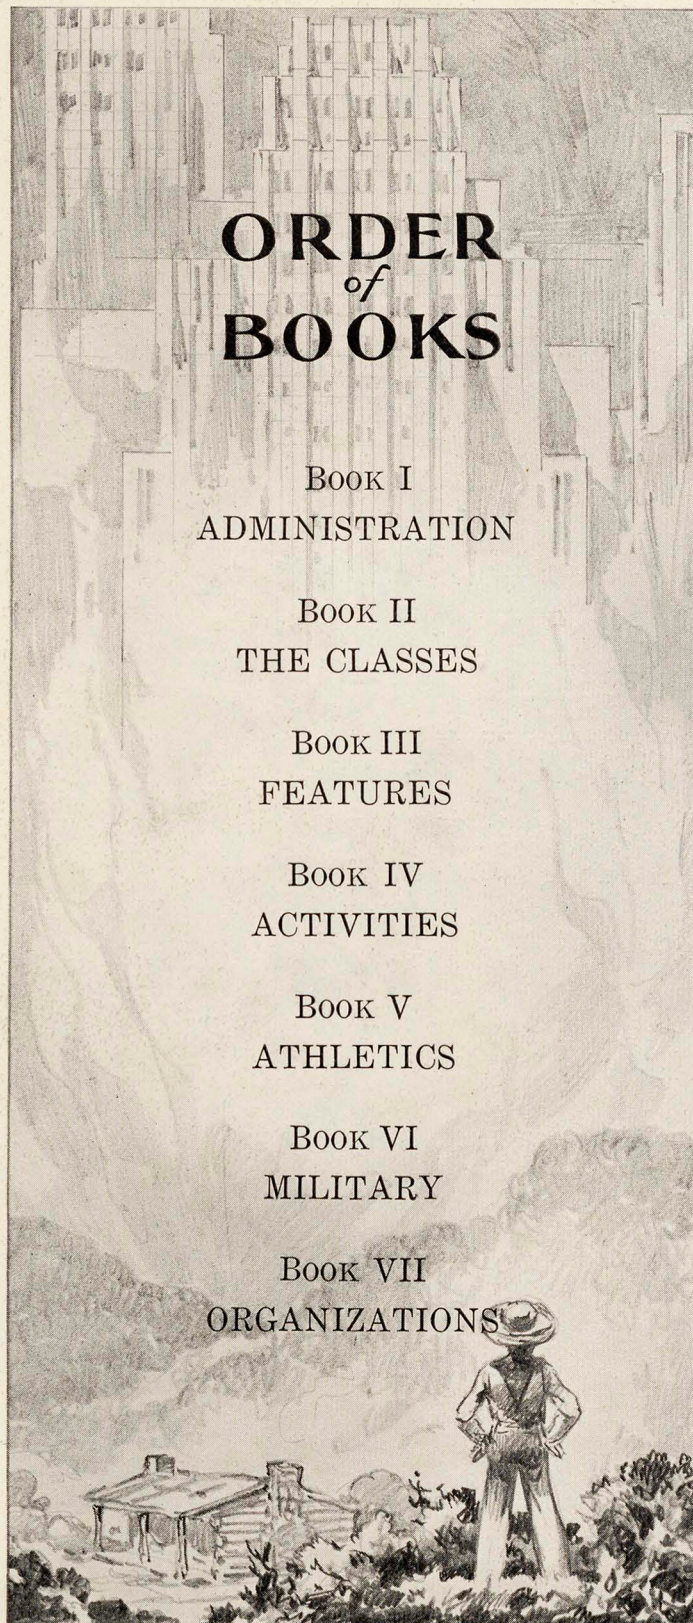

The material progress of the State has been analogous to its advance in learning. The past few years have witnessed such an enormous development of the vast natural resources of Arkansas that its wealth and population have been multiplied, and its industries become one of the vital parts of its system. Transportation has been facilitated, expediting our commercial progress.

The credit for this almost unparalleled advance in all phases of civilization must, of necessity, be given to those who have been the guiding geniuses of the State. To those who have had the perspicacity to correctly prognosticate the future, and then had the executive ability, the courage, the moral strength, and the confidence of their colleagues to consummate their endeavors, the State of Arkansas is eternally indebted.

JOHN CLINTON FUTRALL was born in Jackson, Tennessee, on March 9, 1873. After receiving the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts from the University of Virginia, he was a post-graduate student at the University of Chicago, Johns Hopkins, and the Universities of Bonn and Halle in Germany. He was professor of Latin and Greek at the University of Arkansas from 1894 until 1913, when he became president of the institution. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, of the Arkansas History Commission, of the Archaeological Institute of America, and the Classical Association of the Middle West and South.

NOTE—Name of the chairman stands first.

Governor Harvey Parnell

GOVERNOR HARVEY PARNELL

THE present building and equipment of the University of Arkansas is of very inferior quality—one of the poorest of any state university in the country. Contrariwise, the faculty stands preeminent in the nation—it has no superior in quality. The faculty is not equaled in standard by any other Southern state university, but practically all of them outrank it as to physical conditions. True, we are progressing, slowly and tortuously, as is evinced by the new Engineering and Agricultural buildings, which are inferior to none in the country, but there are multitudinous other features of the University that need building up badly.

To accomplish this the expenditure of considerable money will be necessary. So far the state legislature has not been over-benevolent in its appropriation of funds for the University. It is hoped that the next session will provide the requisite finances to enable the University to progress as it should.

The main hope of the University lies in Governor Harvey Parnell, who is one of its strongest advocates. He has lived up to his promises and worked for a greater University of Arkansas in particular, and for the whole field of education in general.

In the person of Governor Harvey Parnell, the University has not only a friend but an ardent supporter, and one that will mean much to the building up of the University of Arkansas educationally.

The present building program entails the construction of a new library building, a building to house the law students, a new building for chemistry and physics, a student union building, a new dormitory, a new commerce building, a new gymnasium, and eventually a building to replace University Hall. When completed, this will give the University of Arkansas one of the most complete plants of any university in the South.

President John Clinton Futrall

IT is with no inconsiderable degree of satisfaction that I look back over the eighteen years that have elapsed since I became the chief executive of the University of Arkansas. I make this statement without apology, for the progress that has been made represents the achievements of many able and loyal men, not only in this period but of an earlier generation.

During these years, in the face of the establishment of almost a dozen other colleges in the State, and in spite of an elevation of standards for entrance and for graduation, the number of students on the campus has trebled. The library has grown from a miscellaneous collection of 15,000 or 20,000 books to a well organized library of approximately 100,000 volumes, and is now rated as one of the best university libraries in the South. Technical and scientific apparatus and equipment have increased in the same ratio. Two of the best and most beautiful educational buildings in the nation have been erected.

In the general estimation of the public and of educators, and in accordance with a published report of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the quality of the faculty of the University of Arkansas is of an unusually high order.

The curriculum has been extended to include law, business administration, journalism, home economics, and other subjects. There has been a notable increase in the amount of research work done by faculty scholars. A graduate school has been established. The institution has begun to take on the atmosphere of a real university. The influence of the University has been widely extended through direct contacts made with thousands of citizens in all parts of the State.

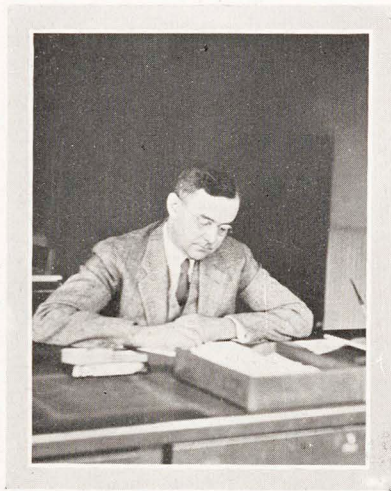

The University has, however, still great problems to overcome before it can be the important factor in life and development of the State that a great university may be. For this purpose it needs money for buildings, for equipment, for better faculty salaries, for scholarships and student loans. The solving of these problems is one that calls for the best efforts of the University governing board, the administration, the students, the alumni, and all friends of education in the State.

PRESIDENT JOHN CLINTON FUTRALL
UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS

The Graduate School

DEAN J. C. JORDAN

THE student in his first year of graduate work has two aims: He endeavors, by learning from others, to increase his knowledge of his chosen subject; and he tries to learn something of methods in research which will enable him to carry on his studies independently, to increase not only his private stores of knowledge but also the general knowledge of mankind.

In accordance with these two desired ends, he undertakes two kinds of work, namely, courses of lectures or reading or laboratory experiments from which he expects to gain more information than he has already come into possession of from his undergraduate studies; and the solution of the problem by which he hopes to discover what has not before been known. Small as his discovery may be, it yet has been independent, and it is his own.

The graduate school of the University of Arkansas, like all other graduate schools, keeps these two principles in mind. It requires of its students the pursuit of advanced courses under instructors competent to give them, and the completion of a thesis designed to test ability to do original work.

The degree of concentration is naturally much more intense than in the undergraduate college, for the graduate student confines himself to two closely related fields of knowledge. His choice of courses and his thesis problem are limited by this consideration.

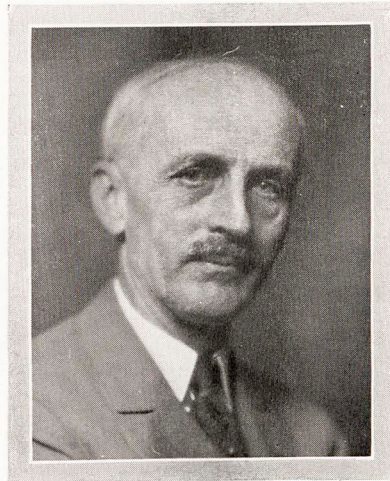

His studies are in many respects free from the ordinary restraints of undergraduate work, but the purpose of graduate work he must constantly keep in mind. He must remember that interest and independence are more essential than formal requirements.

A graduate school cannot be created out of hand. It must be constructed upon a significant undergraduate life, and not something imposed from above. You cannot, therefore, give sound graduate training without giving sound undergraduate work. It is impossible for the University of Arkansas to offer the Ph. D. degree at present for these very reasons, but with the present library and research facilities, the splendid faculty, and the program of work outlined for graduate work, we are able to give a master's degree with a pedigree behind it. To do this, however, absolute cooperation between students and faculty members is necessary.

College of Arts and Sciences

"I CALL therefore a complete and generous education, that which fits a man to perform justly, skillfully, and magnanimously all the offices, both public and private, of peace and war," said John Milton, writing in 1644 of what he spoke of as a "better education" than that in vogue. The wording of that definition might be changed to bring it within the range of the "peppy" English of our day, but a better definition of the aims of liberal education has yet to be drawn. Perhaps the next generation will be able to omit "of war." Modern science and industry have added a multitude of facts and machines unknown to Milton, have created hundreds of trades and professions which the creator of "Paradise Lost" could not have imagined, even though he was familiar with the new philosophy of Bacon, and had met at Florence the great Galileo who had invented the "optic glass" that was to bring the rest of the universe close to us.

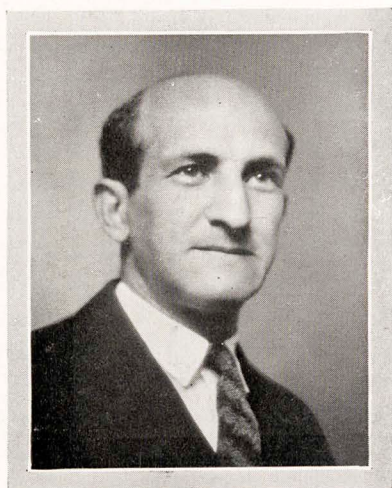

DEAN V. L. JONES

No one can learn more than a small part of the knowledge that man has accumulated; still less can he perform "skillfully" all the public duties or the private trades now so numerous because of the complexity of our civilization, but a properly educated person should be able to know the meaning of these duties and these grades, and their relation to the past and the future. He should know the method by which scientists pioneer beyond the border of known facts. He should be able to distinguish the important among the shifting currents of civilization. He should be able to find uses for his leisure that would minimize the horrors of an "old Age of Cards."

There is abundant proof in human experience that may have found such values as those in liberal education. There is no reason why liberal education should not, in greater degree, continue to serve some of the most deeply-rooted desires of humanity. The continued development of machines promises vastly more leisure for a multitude of persons than the present offers. "Technological unemployment," the five-day week, overcrowded professions, elimination of middlemen, a surplus of farmers, or coal miners—with such terms we are already familiar, and they promise to figure even more largely in the future. For all these and for other contingencies it is well that the man of the next generation be prepared to understand the meaning of "all the offices, public and private, of peace," and to perform whatever work he is fitted to do in the light of that knowledge.

School of Law

DEAN J. S. WATERMAN

THE School of Law during the academic year entered upon a new period in its development. For the first five years of the history of the school the efforts of the law faculty were directed to the organization of the curriculum and the law clubs, and the building up of the law library. With the exception of several pamphlets on legal topics which were distributed and of certain addresses, the School of Law had not come in as close contact with the bar of the State as it had desired to do. A number of research articles were prepared by members of the law staff but were published in the law reviews of other universities and did not, as a rule, come to the attention of our own bar.

In November, 1929, The School of Law began to issue a series of bulletins containing articles to the legal profession in Arkansas. This publication, called "The Law School Bulletin," is distributed without cost to the members of the bar of the State. It includes legal articles, comments on recent Arkansas cases, discussions of existing and proposed legislation, and brief announcements concerning the law school. In time it is hoped that lawyers in the State will contribute articles to this bulletin and that it will serve as a place for the discussion of the legal problems confronting the State.

In addition to being of practical value to the lawyers of the State, the bulletin should be of considerable aid to the young man studying law in the University of Arkansas. Since it is devoted almost entirely to a consideration of the case and statutory law of Arkansas, there will be available studies of law of this jurisdiction to which the law students can be referred. The bulletin should also stimulate the law students to prepare articles for publication based on the results of their investigation of moot cases assigned in their law club work.

Additional recognition of the quality of work of the School of Law came from the General Assembly in 1929. By a legislative act the graduates of the school are admitted to practice in the State without being required to take the bar examination. The members of the graduating class of 1930 were the first beneficiaries of this privilege.

The future outlook for the University of Arkansas law school is bright. The school will grow in years to come, not only in enrollment, but in equipment, faculty staffs, and laboratory equipment for legal study. The evolution of the law school is hoped and expected to be fast and to grow in prestige with the growth and prestige of a greater University of Arkansas.

College of Education

AS I write these lines, two thoughts regarding the functions of a teacher-training school in a University come prominently to mind. The first recalls the remarks of an Eastern college administrator, who had just completed an elaborate study of the "great teachers" in the college of the late '90's. He said, "The popular saying that great teachers are born and not made is untrue. The great teachers of the preceding generation were very largely self-made; it would be an error to conclude that they came by their greatness without a long process of development."

It is probable that no training school or college of education ever turns out a ready-made product. At best it serves to short-circuit the long and circuitous process by which the hard-working teachers of the preceding generation became worthy of the title, "great." We talk of the professional training as if it were completed at graduation, when actually it is only the preliminary step towards professional development that has been completed. This itself, however, is of sufficient importance to society to justify teacher training work in a University.

A second function of a teacher-training unit in a University is to make sure that its prospective teachers really receive a University education. Perhaps the significance of this statement will be more completely understood from the story of the Englishman, who, looking at the dry bed of a California river, said, "I never realized before how much water improves a river."

The first teacher-training agencies were content to spend all of their energies upon the "dry bed" of the immediately practical in higher education. This was not inconsistent with the philosophy of the period, which assigned the teacher a very restricted and formalized place in the education system. The modern teacher, however, must fill such a variety of demands that it is imperative that he possess a broad general background of education in addition to his professional training and to his specialization in his chosen fields. This function is still but poorly performed in the average college. Perhaps the University of Arkansas may be able to lead the movement to assure a University education for each prospective teacher.

One of the objectives of the college of education is to extend our services beyond the small confines of the University campus. The improvement of teachers in service has come to be quite as much a function of our Universities as the training of teachers for service.

DEAN C. E. PRALL

College of Engineering

DEAN W. N. GLADSON

ENGINEERING is an applied science which can be traced back to the most primitive civilization. One may acquire proficiency in any branch of Engineering in one of two ways; first, by long practice, beginning as an apprentice with a professional engineer and serving in various capacities from the simplest to the most responsible position in the field, followed by personal experience in responsible charge of engineering works; or second, by completing four or more years of study in an Engineering College, during which one will acquire a knowledge of the physical sciences, mathematics and the rudiments of engineering practice, followed by a short apprenticeship with professional engineers and a period of independent practice.

The advantages claimed for the second method are a shorter period between the first apprenticeship and the final goal of professional engineering and the ability of the college to impart more complete knowledge of the fundamentals of engineering and at the same time give the student a broader foundation on which to build his final technical knowledge.

The college graduate is not limited in his choice of a profession to any particular field, but after finishing his college career is prepared to enter any one of a number of allied branches of engineering and may develop as an executive, as a designing, commercial, construction or operating engineer, or his knowledge will be of value in any field of human endeavor should he decide to quit the field of engineering entirely.

Engineering has been a part of the University of Arkansas' curriculum since the founding of the institution. The Engineering College seeks to serve the people of the state: first, in residence teaching; second, by extension teaching; and third, by research in the Engineering Experiment Station, it seeks to improve processes of manufacture, to aid in developing the state's natural resources, to solve engineering problems for the rural and urban population of the state, and to discover new knowledge and fundamental laws.

The corps of teachers and research workers in the College of Engineering is small, but carefully selected for their training and experience, each in his particular line. The physical equipment is limited but in each laboratory an effort has been made to secure the best. Duplications have been avoided and each machine and instrument represents a class of modern, useful equipment which will be found in the every-day practice of Engineering.

College of Agriculture

SOME faculty members of the College of Agriculture of the University deal primarily with teaching, while others deal with teaching and research. The College of Agriculture of the University does three things. Its work is divided into three main divisions.

One of these is the Agricultural Experiment Station. The group of scientists making up the staff of the Agricultural Experiment Station devotes its time to solving the problems which are too involved and too expensive for individual farmers and farmers' wives to solve for themselves. These problems have to do with plant diseases, animal diseases, nutrition, fertilizers, varieties of field crops, fruits and vegetables, marketing, destructive insects, and economic and social problems of the farm and of the home. The College has approximately thirty-five workers associated with the Agricultural Experiment Station, each devoting his time or a part of it, to definite research problems. Discovery of new facts for the farmers of the State is, therefore, the central object of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

DEAN DAN T. GRAY

Teaching resident students is another division of the College of Agriculture. This phase of the College's work is most familiar to the students, since teaching affairs are activities which can be seen by all students. The College proper, therefore, deals with resident students, and undertakes to discover and develop new leadership for the rural people of the State.

The third division of the College of Agriculture is extension work in agriculture and home economics, which is known well throughout the State. While the average student of the campus sees little of this part of the work of the College, still it consists of nothing except simple pedagogy. However, the students taught are not on our campus nor in our classrooms; these students are out on the farms and in the farm houses—men and women who are too old to come on the campus, and boys and girls who are too young. This part of the faculty of the College of Agriculture is scattered over the entire State. There are approximately 135 men and women employed in this service, all of whom are busy teaching the farm men and women of the State improved practices in farming and home-making.

This extension department of the College of Agriculture is one of the most important. By this means the College is enabled to give those people who are the taxpayers of the State, and who are supporting the State university and the College of Agriculture, the benefits of this College.

College of Medicine

DR. FRANK VINSONHALER

THE School of Medicine is located at Little Rock. Like Cornell and other great educational institutions, the clinical advantages of a city are regarded as requisite for efficient medical teaching. The school was organized in 1879, and it has progressed with the development in medicine that has exemplified the most wonderful development in its history.

Its voluntary teachers, numbering about sixty-five, embrace the best men in the practice of medicine in Little Rock. It is rated as an "A" grade institution, and its students are accepted in any other "A" grade medical school in the United States. The freshman class numbers forty-nine, with a total enrollment of one hundred and sixty-three.

The first two years of training are given in the building which was formerly the State Capitol building, but is now known as the War Memorial building, and the last three years at Second and Sherman Streets.

There is a free clinic maintained, known as the Isaac Folsom Clinic, where an average of one hundred and twenty-five patients are treated daily. The personnel of the clinic staff includes five internists, two surgeons, a member representing the special branches, a roentgenologist, two bacteriologists and a laboratory technician. In addition to the regular dispensary service, the staff yearly examines approximately fifteen waiters, butchers, candy makers, fishmongers, and other food handlers of all classes for the protection of the public against disease. Cooperation with the city and county health officers requires a special tuberculosis and dental service.

It is expected that this year extension work will be done in various towns of the state on a more extended scale than was done last year.

In going out over the State and country in the practice of medicine, the graduates of the Medical School become its missionaries. This is one factor given as a reason for the continued growth of the Little Rock branch of the University. With the steady increase in the graduate output has come a steady increase in prestige. Ranking has been granted the Medical School equal to the best in the country. However, the school will continue to grow in equipment, in buildings, and enrollment, if the future can be prognosticated by records of the past.

The distance of the Medical School from the University causes the two to be regarded as separate and distinct institutions, but the reciprocal interest in each other will prevent their ever becoming entirely independent of one another.

School of Business Administration

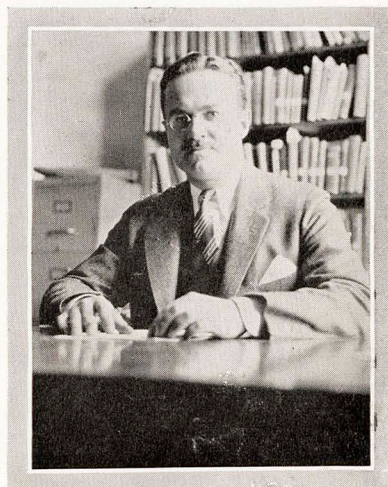

BUSINESS is as old as civilization, but the discernment of underlying force and the formulation of business principles are intellectual products of the increasing complexity of the economic system characteristic of modern times. This growing complexity of society's productive organization is at once the basis of the necessity for every educated citizen to be thoroughly grounded in economic science, and the raison d'être for collegiate training in business administration.

The factual material about business is changing rapidly from year to year: New conditions, new practices, new methods follow one another with baffling rapidity. In training men for business administration—the principal objective of this school—it is not desirable, therefore, to emphasize technique, but rather fundamental business principles and habits of thought. These then are the aims of courses in business; to assist the student to see clearly where seeing at all is difficult, and to train him to think logically and accurately about business problems. Clear insight and straight-thinking about life and economics require genuine ability of a high order. Business success further demands, it may be added, the attributes of strong character and a faculty for leadership.

The School of Business Administration has now completed one college generation. During this time it has graduated some eighty men, all actively engaged in accounting, banking, merchandising and other business pursuits. The School is proud of the records that many of its graduates have made within a few brief years; it recognizes that the measure of its methods and service lies in the achievements of the men upon whom it has conferred degrees.

The School is organized as a senior professional college. Students are received as juniors from other divisions of the University, from other colleges in the State and from out-of-state universities. Complete curricula are offered in accounting, banking and finance, industrial management, marketing and general business. In addition, there are specialized courses in public utilities, real estate and insurance. The School offers a complete program in economics and sociology both for commerce majors and for students in other departments. Students may elect to combine business administration with law, chemistry, and other subjects having occupational value. In addition the School has a placement bureau which has for its function the establishment of contacts between graduates and concerns interested in employing commerce men. Bureau files now include more than a hundred outstanding corporations, many of which send their employment representatives directly to the School.

Plans for the future of the School comprehend an expansion of the teaching and research staff, enlarged housing and more adequate operating facilities, the establishment of a bureau of business research, and the publication of a business journal.

DEAN C. C. FICHTNER

Dean of Men

DEAN G. E. RIPLEY

IN planning for the future, with conditions of the present, it is a good idea to look over the past which was then the present and see how well the plans then drawn for the future have been realized with that future now the present. The old order does change, and if it can be shown that the "New" is better than the "Old," then progress has been made.

Many upperclassmen have told me that student conduct "on the campus" is much better than it was when they were freshmen. They say it does not seem like the same campus.

Many things have helped to bring about these better conditions. I shall mention some things which I feel have played no small part in this better campus life.

We now have a working student government, especially when it comes to questions of student social activities. The "indefinite" Cadet Club of the past has given way to the "definite" Social Committee. This social committee of the "present" is helping make student government a success and its good work promises much for the plans of the future.

Upperclassmen talk to me about improved study life of the campus as well as about the improved student conduct of the campus, and this improvement in study life has been noticed by those in charge of the University library.

The Men's Dormitory Council, "The Gumboots," as they are called, is doing its part in making student government a fact and not a theory, and the conditions in the men's dormitories have become so satisfactory that there is now a waiting list.

The Arkansas Boosters' Club has been of great value and influence in moulding student sentiment of the lower classes, as the Club has stood for wholesome, clean fun and high sportsmanship.

The Work of the Vigilance Committee this year was very successful, and was marked with college rank instead of high school rank. The Vigilance Committee of the future would do well to study the work of this committee in the handling of freshmen problems.

The students have made progress in student government and if they will read carefully the opening paragraph, present plans for the future will result in success of student government at the University of Arkansas.

Dean of Women

IT is difficult for those of us who have grown accustomed to the presence of women on our campus to realize how recent the influx to colleges and universities has been. A half century takes us back to the days when a college girl was a curiosity, and twenty-five years covers the period of tremendous growth in the numbers of women seeking higher education.

In the year 1889-'90 there were enrolled in colleges and universities in the United States 20,874 women. In 1927-'28 this number had increased to 356,137.

These years have also seen a decided change in the type of woman found at college. In the early days girls sought such schools as opened their doors to them, Vassar and Oberlin, first, either because of intellectual interests or because circumstances forced them to earn their living as teachers.

As time passed, it became increasingly popular for girls to go to college, and because it was the fashion, large numbers of them enrolled under an impetus which was neither intellectual nor financial, but social. Thus, it came about that on every campus, side by side with the serious-minded girls who are eager for knowledge, we find a considerable percentage of the butterfly type who interpret college life in terms of dances, dates, and dinners.

It was with the introduction of the social program into the college community that the need arose for guidance and direction, and so the office of the Dean of Women evolved.

Another interesting feature of the increased numbers of women students is the fact that twenty-five per cent of these 356,137 college girls are earning all or part of their expenses. This brings to the Dean's office the administrative duty of placing and supervising the self-helping girl.

The Dean of Women also serves on numerous committees and is ex-officio a member of many of the women's organizations upon the campus. In addition to social and administrative duties, most of deans of women prefer to establish intellectual contacts with both men and women students by way of the classroom, and so a limited number of teaching hours is added to her program. Perhaps the most satisfactory hours of a Dean's day are those devoted to personal conferences with students. These discussions cover a wide range of subjects and invariably lead to a better understanding and readier cooperation on the part of all concerned.

To be of service to both men and women students along any of the above lines is the purpose of the Dean of Women of the University of Arkansas.

The Student Senate, representing all classes of the University, which was a mere recommending body of students, has gradually been granted more authority and has been recognized by the Governing Board of the University, the University Senate. All petitions pertaining to student affairs, advanced by the Student Senate, were immediately approved by this board in favor of the students. Thus, contrary to precedent, student government is being recognized and appreciated by the faculty. Although it is still in its infancy, it should progress rapidly in the next few years.

The Association is a member of the Midwest Student Conference and of the National Student Federation of America, and is represented annually at both conferences.

All student affairs, social functions, and elections are under the direct supervision and control of the Student Senate. The Board of Publications, the Vigilance Committees, and the Student Social Committee are appointed by the President of the Student Senate.

Surplus funds were utilized to send students to the National Student Federation of America convention at Atlanta, Ga. Kermit Potts and Leon Catlett represented the University of Arkansas this year.

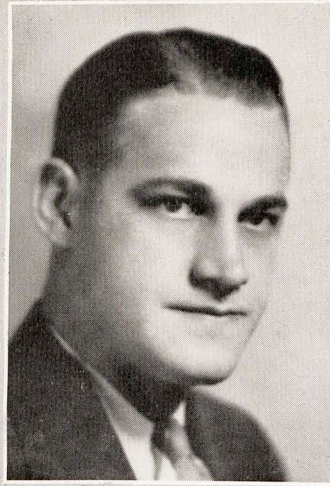

In drawing up the social calendar, the committee worked in cooperation with the fraternities, sororities, and other groups. In this manner the students of the University have had dances of some sort every Friday and Saturday night in the season allowed for dances by the University.

The Carnall Hall Governing Board is composed of representatives of each class. A feeling of good will, fellowship, and loyalty to the ideals of the University are the standards which the board fosters.

The duties of the board are manifold. It has the responsibility of staging dances, open-houses, and other social events. It prevents unnecessary noise, and regulates uses of the telephones. All infractions of dormitory rules are punished by the board by fining the culprits.

Boards are of two kinds at Carnall Hall, the one open, in which all girls gather in the parlor and discuss the various problems which confront the inmates of the dormitory; the other closed, in which what goes on inside the doors is scarcely known. It is in the latter meetings that punitive measures are enforced.

The Men's Dormitory Council meets at least once a week for the purpose of fining such persons as may have been apprehended infracting the rules and regulations of the men's dormitories. The members of the Council are elected by a popular vote of the students of the dormitories. Prior to this year, it had been customary to elect only juniors and seniors, but this year one of the men was a sophomore at the time of his election.

Four men compose the council, three from Buck Hall and one from Hill Hall. The "gumboots" are initiated according to the dormitory custom, which is not altogether ceremonial. Order is maintained throughout study hours, the students being allowed to create no unnecessary disturbance. The councilmen, working in cooperation with Mrs. Leaming, the matron, plan and execute dormitory dances, dinners, and other entertainments throughout the year.

Inspection of all rooms is made once a week, at Saturday noon, and students whose rooms are found in disorder are fined. The Council supervises the use of dormitory laundry and pressing plant, and regulates the actions of freshmen. The "gumboots" task is a thankless one, and a never-ending source of grief. The Council is directly responsible to Dean Ripley for the actions of the men in the dormitories, and all complaints made by students must be presented through it.

BOOK.....II THE CLASSES

This section dedicated to

Joseph T. Robinson

To Joseph Taylor Robinson, one of the greatest political figures in Arkansas' history, whose sagacious endeavors and loyal attention to his state and national duties have so indelibly graven his name upon the tablet of American democracy, we dedicate this division of the Razorback of 1931.

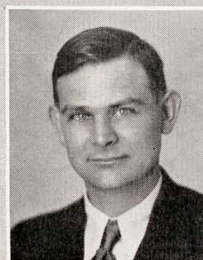

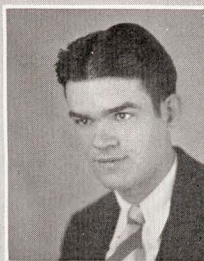

JOSEPH TAYLOR ROBINSON was born at Lonoke, Arkansas, on August 26, 1872. He received his education at the University of Arkansas, and was admitted to the bar in 1895. He was a member of the Fifty-eighth to the Sixty-second Congresses (1903-1913) from the Sixth Arkansas District. He resigned from Congress on January 14, 1913, and was inaugurated governor of Arkansas the succeeding day. Upon being elected to the United States Senate on January 28, 1913, he resigned as governor on March 10, 1913, and took his seat in the Senate on the same day. He was the Democratic candidate for vice-president of the United States in 1928.

Each year thousands of students emanate from the cloisters of our colleges and universities into the world, prepared, at least in theory, for the vicissitudes of fortune that they expect to encounter. And, in a sense, they are prepared; for life at a university is not entirely roseate, but is punctuated by disappointments, and is appendaged by considerable disillusionment.

But, regardless of the adverse side of college, we, the Class of 1931, are certain that, notwithstanding the difficulties we encountered in acquiring our education, we have been repaid a thousand fold. Knowledge is a priceless guerdon that is a consequent only of assiduous study; it cannot be gained sans diligent application and profound research. And we are thankful that we have not been too dilatory to reach the summit of our goal.

But not all of the four years we have spent at the University of Arkansas has been expended in sedulous study of books. The Class of 1931 is very proud of the fact that, in addition to its unusually good scholastic record, its members were catalogued in every extra-curricula activity on the campus. In all branches of athletics, in dramatics, debate, music, and in all honorary and professional organizations, members of the Class of 1931 were pre-eminent.

We leave the University of Arkansas with emotions of anticipation commingled with those of regret. It will seem anomalous next fall when we are not again enrolling, and preparing for another nine-month drink of the Pierian spring. We will sadly miss our old acquaintances among the faculty and students, and will probably be forced to replace their vacancies with other associates not nearly so congenial and compatible. But we hope that our four years spent within the broad portals and upon the spacious campi of the University of Arkansas has given us sufficient of a synoptic view to enable us to enjoy to the utmost whatever our desiny has in store for us. We have had a good time here, but even the most exquisite refinements of delight soon yield to satiety.

CLASS OF 1932

OLIVER HOLMES

OFFICERS

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES	PRESIDENT
VIRGINIA HOUSTON	VICE-PRESIDENT
J. WIRT BURNETT	TREASURER
LESTEREE GEORGE	SECRETARY

*"Qui pelago credit, magno se foenore tollit;
Qui pugnas et rostra petit, praecingitur auro;
Vilis adulator picto jacet ebrius ostro;
Sola pruniosis horret facundia pannis."*

—Petronius Arbiter.

We, the members of the Class of 1932, having served our two years apprenticeship outside the shrine of learning, at last have been admitted into the sacred adytis, where we have seen the "light that never was on sea or land" and have solemnly renounced the vanities of the world, pledging ourselves unreservedly to a life of complete intellectual endeavor. That is, until we graduate.

Our roster is studded with illustrious names that stand out from the hoi polloi like landscape scenery between the signboards upon our highways. Who shall, or can, forget such men as Wiseman, The Great Morley, Darr, Chambers, Secrest, Ledbetter, Kelley, Robbins, or even, for that matter, the great and only Holmes, who reads Latin poesy. These men are to the University of Arkansas what the Elizabethans are to our literature. The zealously and gusto with which we have served our school are comparable only to the prodigality with which we have helped ourselves to whatever and whoever we wanted.

We have been perspicacious enough not to spend too much time in study, realizing fully its harmful effects when overindulged in. Burton, in his "Atamony of Melancholy," Part I, Section ii, Sub-section 15, states, "The Turks abdicated Corcutus, the next heir, from the Empire, because he was so much given to his book; and 'tis the common tenet of the world, that learning dulls and diminisheth the spirits, and so per consequens, produceth melancholy." The 1931 Epicurean efflorescence of the Class of 1932 is sufficient proof of the fact that we did not make the solecism to which Burton alludes.

CLASS OF 1933

TOM MURPHY

OFFICERS

TOM MURPHY	PRESIDENT
ANNA LOUISE POWELL	VICE-PRESIDENT
KATHERINE HUTTO	SECRETARY
JAY DICKEY	TREASURER

As I prognosticated in the Razorback of 1930, the Class of 1933 this year again evinced its indubitable superiority over all preceding classes at the University of Arkansas by gloriously carrying on the enviable record established during the collegiate year of 1929-30, when we were Freshmen, into our sophomoric year of servitude. We might interpolate here that the word, "sophomoric," hitherto applied only as an adjective implying contempt, has, due to our superlative achievements during our second year at this great institution, been mutated into a term denoting excellency and superiority, at least on the University of Arkansas campus.

The Class of 1933 had nothing to be ashamed of, and incomprehensibly much to be inordinately and justly proud of. Compare our record with that of any other preceding class and draw your own conclusions. In athletics, we furnished the University with such marvelous performers as Sexton, Murphy, Kendall, Jelks, Erwin, Houston, Edmonson, Phillips, Stout, Clark, Brown, and Gibson, whose athletic prowess quite eclipsed the dimmer refulgence of stars of the junior and senior classes, whose glory diminished to the glow of satellites when overshadowed by the scintillation of the members of the Class of 1933. And what we accomplished in athletics is analogous to what we have accrued in all branches of campus activities.

*"Have I set such a star
To show light on thy brow
That thou sawest from afar
What I show to thee now?"*

We have pursued our collegiate duties with expedition and competency, making us the cynosure of every eye on the faculty, enforcing our instructors to uphold our mark as one to be striven to be paralleled by all succeeding classes. And we modestly assert that this will not be accomplished in the near future.

TOM MURPHY.

CLASS OF 1934

CURTIS ROGERS

OFFICERS

CURTIS ROGERS	PRESIDENT
VICTORIA CROSS	VICE-PRESIDENT
WALTER NEELY	SECRETARY
DON McLEOD	TREASURER

Although the great financial depression in the state of Arkansas during the year 1930 had a deleterious effect upon a somewhat salutary esemplasticity of the Class of 1934, we have managed to survive and, through our superior talents and eccentricities, to perpetuate for all time the memory of perhaps the most colorful freshman class of the University of Arkansas' history. Anyway, that's how we feel about it. If our class has seemed to be lacking in outstanding men, it has been because the level of intellectual and executive standards has been so raised from the common stratas that it has been almost impossible for any one man to be recognized as the superior of his likewise talented classmates.

We have learned, in our brief year at the University, the full significance of the true Arkansas spirit. We have learned to respect the years of Stits Hays and Nelson Sadler. We have learned to worship the accepted gods, and not to take the faculty too seriously. We have learned much more than that, but we can't divulge all the information we have acquired. For instance, what happens when the Discipline Committee meets, or what some of the boys said at the Interfraternity Banquet.

Anyway, it's a good University, and we're not sorry that we came. We have had a good time up here, and we have learned considerably, both inside the classroom and out. We have been wary of what the misguided upperclassmen have advised us, and have paid absolutely no attention to what the Vigilance Committee commanded us. The upperclassmen invited us to but few of their dances, so we reciprocated by abandoning the ancient tradition of having a freshman dance, to which all the seniors, juniors and sophomores expect to be invited. If we sat in the freshman bleachers at the football games, it was because the alumni beat us to all the seats in the grandstand. We wore our green caps and black ties whenever we wanted to, and whenever a revolutionary complex seized us, we didn't. We respected no traditions.

We shall probably remain freshmen the rest of our lives.

ASSOCIATED LAW STUDENTS

DEAN J. S. WATERMAN

THE Law School is one of the youngest colleges on the campus. The first class was graduated in 1927. Though young, it is fast becoming one of the strongest schools in the University and one of the best law schools in the South. It has a library of text and reference books on law of approximately 10,000 volumes. Under the administration of Dean J. S. Waterman the Law School has been recognized as a grade "A" school and has been admitted to the American Association of Law Colleges.

During the 1929 session of the Legislature a bill was introduced and passed which provides that all graduates of the University of Arkansas Law School may be admitted to practice in Arkansas without taking the bar examination. The influence of this law has been tremendous and the enrollment in the school has nearly doubled since its passage. Graduates of the University of Arkansas Law School may also practice in the states of Texas, New York, and a number of others without bar examinations.

Practically every graduate of the Law School is now practicing in Arkansas. The success of these men speaks well for the thoroughness of the training they have received. Moot courts are held monthly with students receiving practical as well as technical and theoretical training.

Phi Alpha Delta, one of the leading legal fraternities, has a chapter at Fayetteville which is rapidly becoming strong. Other nationals are planning to establish chapters in the school in the near future. In 1928 Estoppel Club was organized. It is patterned after the Order of Coif, which is the Phi Beta Kappa of law schools.

The Associated Law Students is an organization composed of law students. Although temporarily abandoned in 1929-'30, plans are now under way to reorganize it. Its purpose is to secure the united efforts of all the law students on any proposition concerning their general welfare. It is modeled after the Associated Students of the University of Arkansas.

The future looks very bright for the University Law School. Arkansans desiring to practice law in the State are coming to realize more and more the importance of seeking their training within the boundaries of the State and to secure a fundamental training in legal principles. Additional courses are planned for next year with an increased faculty to take care of additional students.

Carl Raymond Gray

To Carl Raymond Gray, railway executive, whose advance from telegraph operator to president of the Union Pacific System has made him the cynosure of every eye in Arkansas, and has served as an inspiration for our youth, we dedicate this division of the Razorback of 1931.

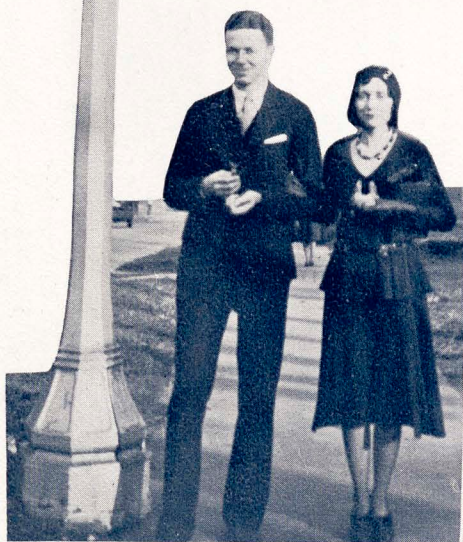

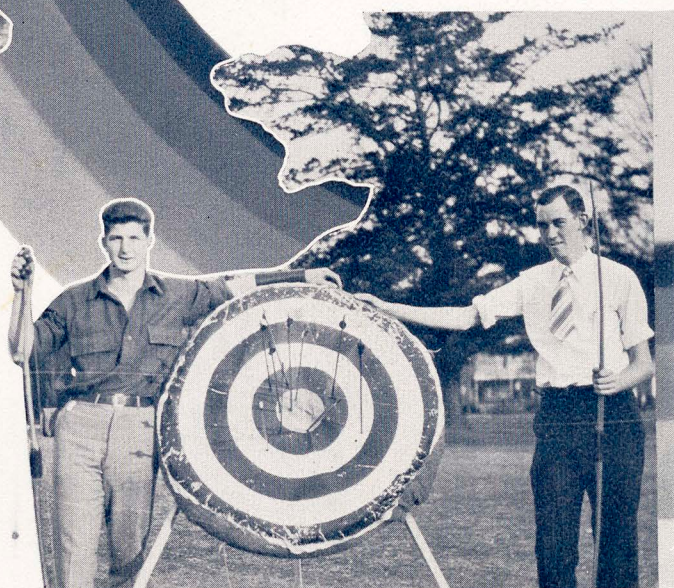

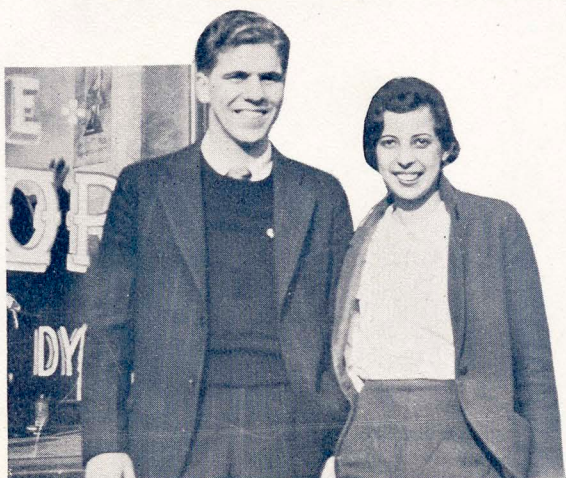

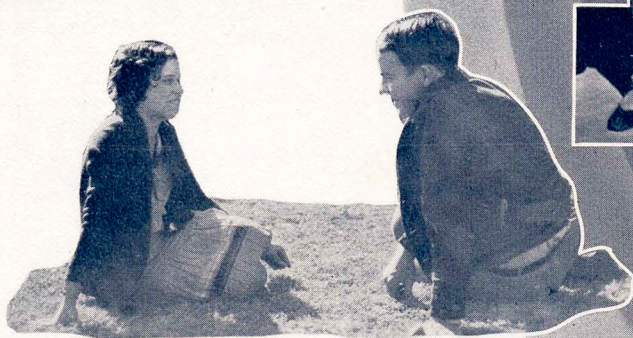

CARL RAYMOND GRAY was born in Princeton, Arkansas, on September 28, 1867. He was educated in the preparatory department of the University of Arkansas. Beginning as telegraph operator and station agent on the St. L. & S. F. Railway in 1883, he advanced to senior vice-president by 1909. He served as general manager of the C. & E. I. Railroad, and chairman of the Wheeling & L. E. Railway. In addition, he has been president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle, Oregon, Electric Railways, the Western Maryland Railway, the Great Northern Railway; and since January 1, 1920, has been president of the Union Pacific System.

The Razorback of 1931

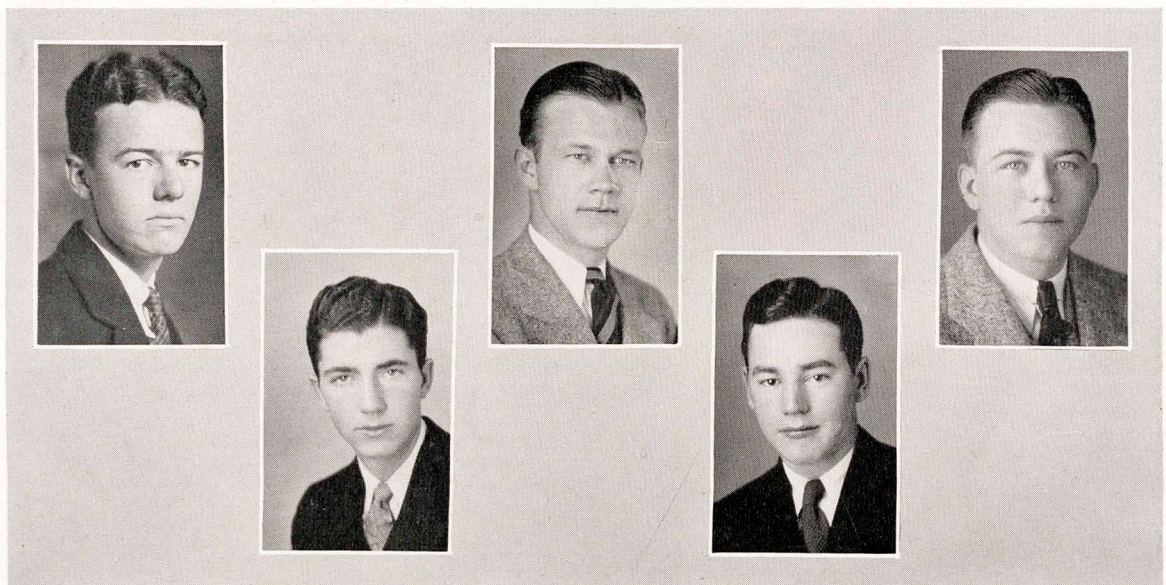

WISEMAN

THIS Razorback of 1931, as its dedication indicates, attempts to be a memorial to the Great of the State of Arkansas, as some slight manifestation of our regard and esteem for them and their accomplishments. But while endeavoring to make the book a fitting monument to the State's illustrious sons, we have attempted not to overlook the fact that a university annual should perpetuate the activities of the collegiate year, and we have strived toward this end. Whether or not we have succeeded, only the test of time can tell.

In outline, the Razorback of 1931 has somewhat closely adhered to the Razorbacks of 1929 and 1930, the present editors feeling that the two previous books could be but little improved upon. And if we have been as successful as have our predecessors, we will feel that our labors have not been entirely in vain.

Due to a curtailed enrollment in the University during 1929-'30, and the difficulty of selling advertisements on account of the financial depression, the work of the Business Manager has been far more perplexing and arduous than in previous years. The fact that Morley and his assistants were able to finance the book and still have a slight surplus remaining is an eternal tribute to their sagacity and business ability.

We wish to express our gratitude to Mr. R. C. Walker of the Southwestern Engraving Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and to Mr. Todd Ellis of the Russellville Printing Company of Russellville, Arkansas, for their indefatigable labors to assist the Editor and Business Manager. Without the benefits of their experience, our endeavors would have been futile.

The Arkansas Traveler

HORACE CATE

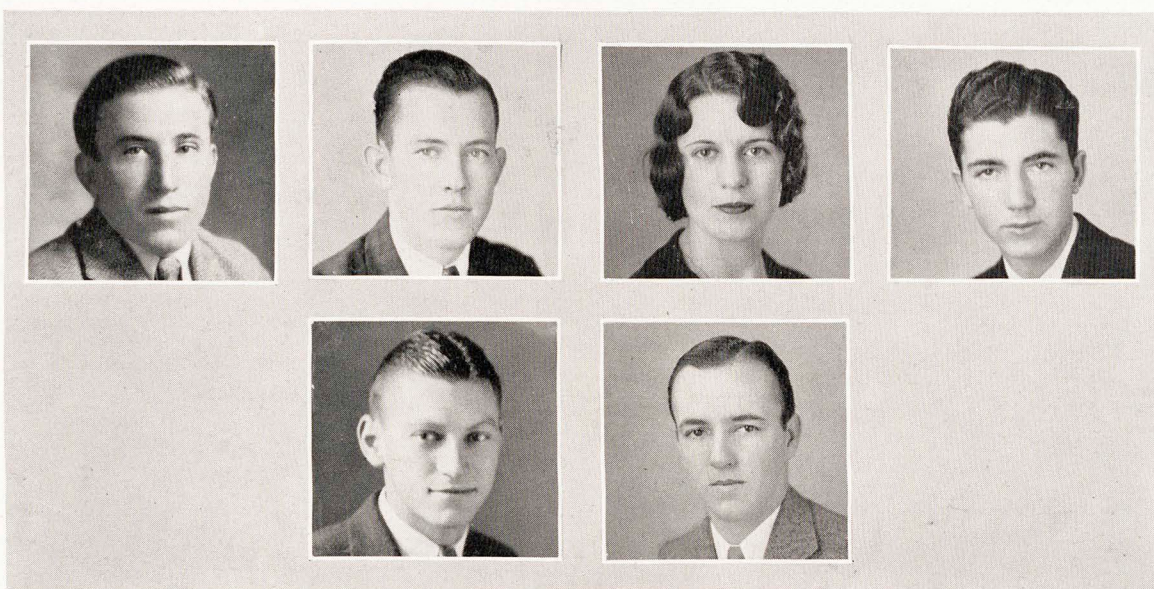

THE year of 1931 saw the Arkansas Traveler, official weekly publication of the University of Arkansas, change with the Journalism School. Since the Journalism Department offered a major for the first time, the Traveler was revised in order to serve as a true laboratory medium.

The publication was changed from a seven to an eight column paper. A new office in the center of all activities was established. Nearly two-score reporters searched and combed the campus day and night for news and features. A well-balanced editorial board and several wide-awake columnists gave Arkansas students a good interpretation of the news on the campus.

Ten special issues were published during the year as the Traveler staff gave all departments of the University equal representation.

The usual thirty issues were published, including the souvenir, orientation, anniversary of the Traveler, and the annual "razz" sheet, published in tabloid form, which were features new in Traveler history.

The entire journalism school, under the direction of a veteran staff, had a hand in publishing the Traveler this year. Both an organized editorial and business staff functioned all year as the Traveler ended its 25th year on the Razorback campus.

The Arkansas Agriculturist is a twenty-page magazine published monthly by the students of the College of Agriculture. The news which it carries is written primarily by the students. In addition to the news and editorials, Dean Dan T. Gray contributed a page each month which is known as Dean Gray's own page.

The Agriculturist is not only of importance to the students of the College of Agriculture, but to the farmers and all other agricultural workers of the State as well, because news of both general and technical interest appears in its columns each month.

The Board of Publications is the legislative body as concerns student publications and applies itself for the most part with the Razorback and the Arkansas Traveler, student weekly newspaper.

Five faculty members and four student members constitute the board. One of the faculty members is the chairman, Dean G. E. Ripley, who has no vote in meetings except in case of a tie. The faculty membership has remained practically the same for the last several years, but with the adoption of a new student constitution, student members were increased from three to four, making the student voice equal to that of the faculty. The student members of the board are appointed by the President of the Associated Students.

Financial problems of the publications are discussed at meetings of the board and for this reason experienced University business men are selected from the faculty, together with students who have had experience with publications.

Harvey Crowley Couch

To Harvey Crowley Couch, banker, railway executive, and pioneer in the development of public utilities in Arkansas, whose foresight has banned the oil lamp and rendered obsolete the backyard well, and whose startling march from drug clerk to national prominence is reminiscent of Horatio Alger, we dedicate this division of the Razorback of 1931.

HARVEY CROWLEY COUCH was born at Calhoun, Arkansas, on August 21, 1877. After working as a drug store clerk, he organized the North Louisiana Telephone Company in 1904, and the Arkansas Power and Light Company in 1913. He later founded the Mississippi and Louisiana Power and Light Companies. He is president of the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway, and is a director of the Chase National Bank and the Electric Power and Light Company of New York, Seaboard Airline Railway Company, and several Arkansas banks. He was Federal Fuel Administrator for Arkansas during the World War, and the director of the Arkansas State Flood Commission.

The Coaching Staff

Fred Thomsen, the Nebraska sunset, came from the bleak plains of the Cornhusker state to the mountains of Arkansas in the fall of 1927 as the assistant to Coach Francis A. Schmidt. He brought with him a sobriquet of "Terrible Tommy"; an enviable record as an athlete at the University of Nebraska, where he starred in football, track, and baseball; and a reputation of turning out championship high school athletic teams. He also brought along two of the greatest athletes to ever wear the togs of the University of Arkansas—Jack ("Shifty") Dale and Milan Creighton.

After the departure of Schmidt to Texas Christian University, Thomsen succeeded him as Athletic Director and Head Coach at the Razorback institution in 1929-'30, and experienced a successful year. His football team lost but two games and wound up the season in third place in the Southwest Conference. The basketball team again annexed the Conference title for the fifth successive time and the track team had an impressive record compiled at the finish of the year.

But the depression hit Arkansas athletic teams with a vengeance in 1930-'31. The football eleven won but three games; the basketball team wound up the season in third place; and the track squad won but one dual meet. Only the tennis team was undefeated. The teams were crippled by graduation and injuries, and could never seem to get going.

Tommie's first assistant, Charles ("Chuck") Bassett, former Michigan State athlete, served his second year at Arkansas, he having come here in 1929 as assistant football coach and head basketball coach. His basketball team won the championship in 1930, but in 1931 failed to land on top. Bassett is also in charge of intramural athletics, one of the most important activities at the University of Arkansas. His managing of intramurals has been entirely successful and satisfactory to the students who participate in this branch of athletics.

Glen ("Big Bull") Rose, former All-Conference football and basketball player at Arkansas, served his second year as Freshman coach, and he also assisted Bassett in coaching Varsity basketball. His 1930 football team was weaker than former Frosh elevens, due to a dearth of material, but the Yearling basketball squad had a victorious year.

Other members of the coaching staff are Jake Schoonover, Arkansas' All-American end in 1929, and also a four-letter man at the Porker institution; and Clifford Shaw, former All-American high school quarterback while playing with Little Rock high school. Both assisted Rose.

Crippled by the loss of seven regulars by graduation, the Razorbacks of 1930 experienced one of the most disastrous football campaigns that Arkansas teams have ever suffered. The team annexed but three games and lost six. About the only bright lights of the season were the spectacular performances of Captain Creighton, Dale, and Kyle.

The team started auspiciously, crushing the College of the Ozarks, 27-0, but also gave a few indications of the line weakness that was to prove fatal later in the year. The next week, the University of Tulsa dedicated its stadium and walloped the Razorbacks, 26-6. The Pigs were unable to stop Benefiel, and except for one sustained drive in the third quarter which culminated in Ledbetter plunging over for a touchdown, they showed little power of offense. Clark played well at tackle, but suffered an injured hip that forced him to leave the game.

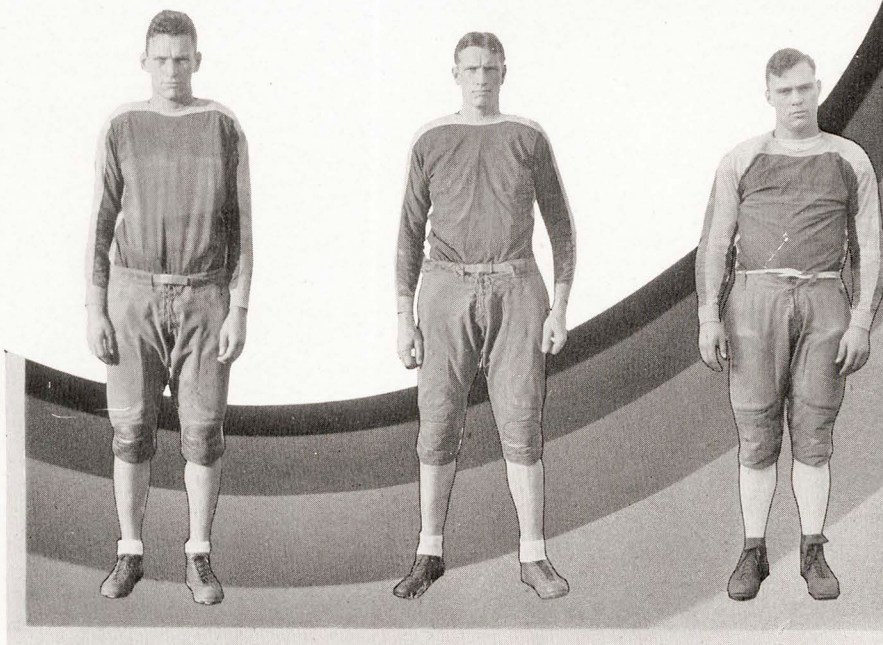

Top—Captain Creighton; Below—Uptmoor, Holmes, Stout.

The Razorbacks dedicated another stadium a week later, and took a worse beating. T. C. U. massacred the Shoats, tearing the Arkansas line to pieces, and rolling up 40 points while holding the Boars scoreless. The Arkansas offense was impotent, and only the backfield played good defensive football.

Arkansas broke into the win column in the Conference on October 18, by nosing out an excellent Rice team at Fayetteville, 7-6. A goal after touchdown by Dale provided the margin of victory for the Razorbacks. The Arkansas line played well for a change, and with this encouragement, the backfield played its best game of the season. The work of Uptmoor, Creighton, and Dale was outstanding. The ends stopped most of Rice's sweeping end runs at the line of scrimmage, and the Owls found the middle of the line impenetrable.

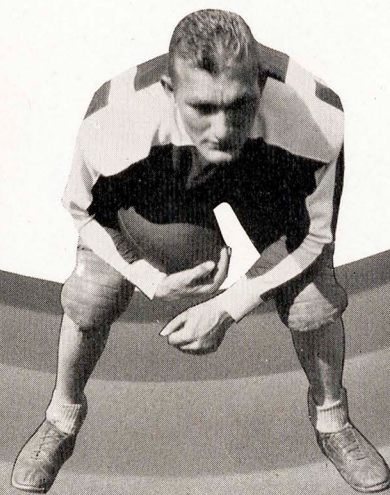

Top—Kelley; Below—Secrest, Chambers, Ledbetter.

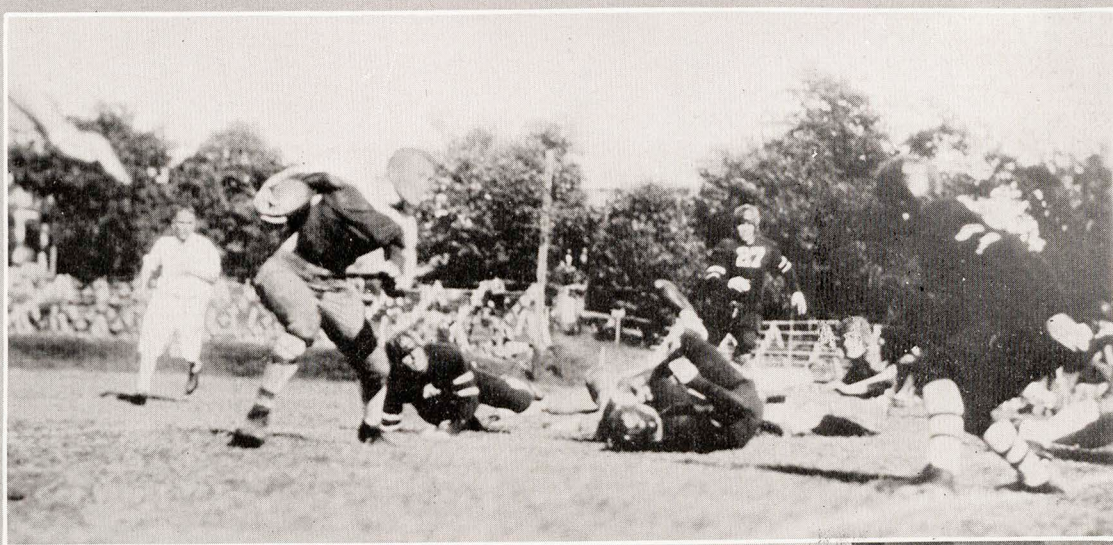

It was an inspired Arkansas team that opposed Texas A. and M. at Little Rock on October 25. The Razorbacks won, 13-0, by virtue of touchdowns by Dale and Ledbetter and a conversion by Dale. The Arkansas line functioned perfectly, holding the Farmers to three first downs, while the Razorbacks gained in midfield almost at will.

Louisiana State University gave the Porkers their worst beating, physically, of the year at Shreveport on November 1. Incidentally, the Cajans won the ball game, 27-12. The first half ended with L. S. U. leading but 13-12, but in the second half the Porker machine collapsed, and fumbles and intercepted passes were converted into two more touchdowns by the boys from Baton Rouge. As usual, the backfield played well during the first half, but it was more of a liability than an asset to Arkansas' chances for victory during the second canto.

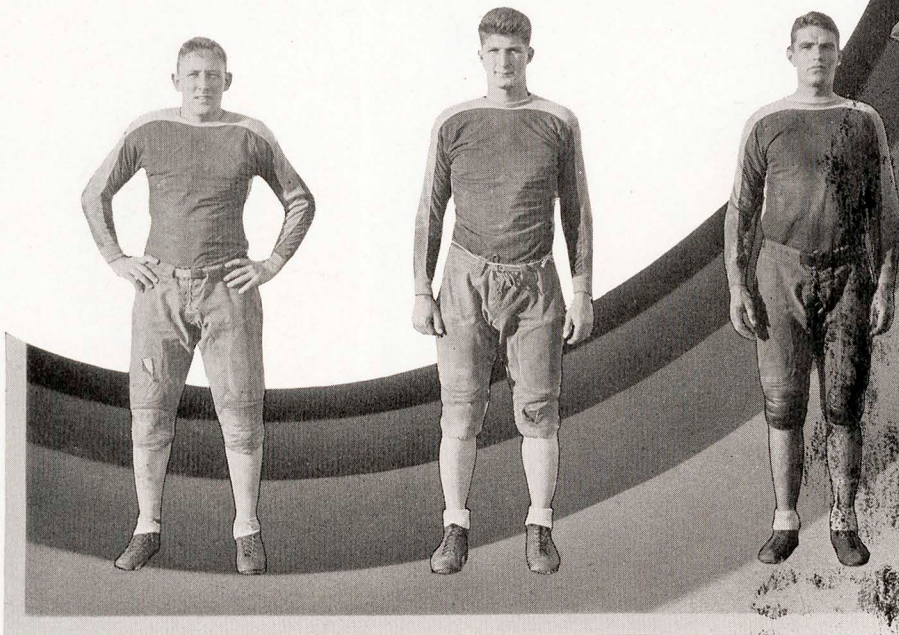

Top—Karr; Below—Harmon, Buckelew, Erwin, Kyle.

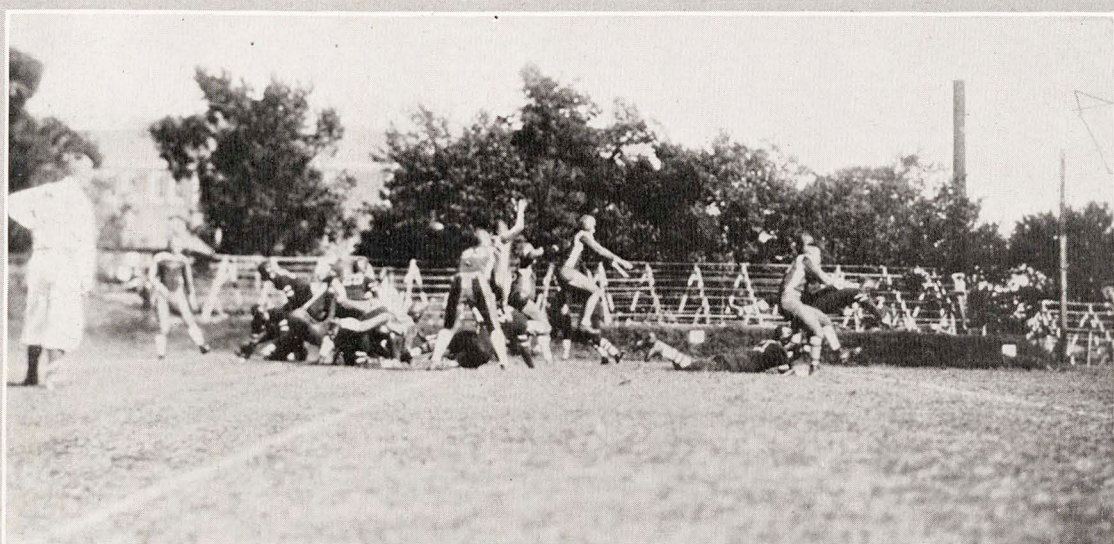

Homecoming was celebrated on November 8, and nobody seemed to care when Arkansas lost the game that day to Oklahoma A. and M. The score was 26-0. The locals were trailing but one touchdown until the last ten minutes of play, when Coach Thomsen, in an effort to tie the score by a passing attack, rushed in several substitutes, who soon had the game on ice for Oklahoma A. and M. The line braced up and played better than usual, but Arkansas never seriously threatened to score. Kyle never got loose for more than ten yards, the overhead attempts were futile, and Ledbetter and Uptmoor gained but little through the Aggies' line. Trigg played best for the visitors, and Erwin turned in a good performance at right tackle for Arkansas.

A beautiful triple pass, perfectly executed by Ledbetter, Dale, and Kyle, spotted a touchdown lead on the Baylor Bears on November 15, but the Top—Phillips; Below—Houston, Hirshorn, Nations.

Pigs couldn't stand prosperity. A touchdown by Jake Wilson and a 40-yard placement kick by Lewter gave the Baptists a 9-7 lead. As usual, Arkansas then commenced a frantic passing game, and as usual the results were fatal. Interceptions by Baylor stultified the Porker gains, and accurate passing by Alford gave Baylor two additional touchdowns, the final score being 22-7. A poor pass defense was the major cause for the Arkansas defeat, as Baylor found difficulty in gaining through the line, and met with no success whatsoever when the Baylor backs attempted to skirt the ends. Dale turned in a startling defensive performance and Secrest and Houston played best in the line.

The Shoats wound up the season by losing a heart-breaker to Centenary at Shreveport on Thanksgiving, 7-6. Arkansas completely outclassed the Louisianans, rolling up 16 first downs to the victor's four. Two completed passes in the third quarter gave Centenary a marker. In the last minute of play Shavin's Phillips gunned a 52-yard pass to Kyle, who caught it over the goal line, but Uptmoor missed goal. The work of Darr and Stout in the line featured.

The prospects for 1931 are not especially bright. Creighton, Dale, Uptmoor, Buckelew, Hays will be lost by graduation. But the line should be strong, and maybe Thomsen can develop a backfield. Two regular backs, Kyle and Ledbetter, will be back, and both are good ball toters but poor blockers. Phillips will probably play quarterback, and should be a good one with a little more experience. Holmes is a fair back, but won't catch punts. And there were some good Frosh.

Freshman Football

ROSE

The 1930 freshmen were the untipodes of their predecessors of five consecutive years, for, whereas the first year teams that represented the University of Arkansas in '25, '26, '27, '28, '29 were undefeated, the yearlings of 1930 failed to win a game or score a point. However, they played but two. The first contest was dropped to Monett Junior College, 6-0. The Freshman's only source of power on the attack was the line plunging of Biddle. The other contest was lost to the Bacone Indians, who mauled the Frosh considerably in the course of attaining a 12-0 decision. In this game the Frosh attempted 31 passes and completed 17 of them, but every drive toward the goal would be terminated by a Bacone interception. The Yearlings were unable to stop Sixkiller, aborigine back, who scored both markers.

Despite the fact that the team was weak and unbalanced, especially in the backfield, Coach Rose developed some good prospects for the Varsity. His best linesmen were Captain Muddy Lake, a lanky end; Ralston, a truculent guard; Sharp, soprano-singing center; Mauney, a big hairy tackle; and the pick of the lot, Yaller Dog Johnson, a hell-raising red-headed end from Reader, Arkansas. In the backfield the best bet for the Varsity seems to be brave Joe Biddle, the Pi Phi house boy, who plays fullback on the gridiron.

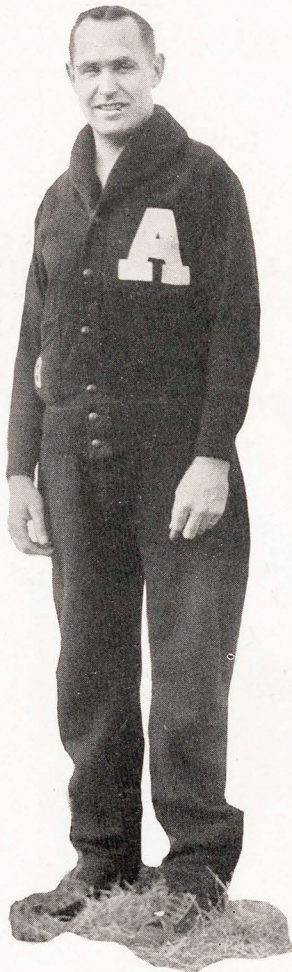

The only other backs who showed to any advantage were Frank "Cut-back" Jones, and a half from Dardanelle, and Jim Flynn, a quarter from McGehee, with plenty of football experience, but both of these dropped out of school and won't be eligible for the Varsity.

The Squad

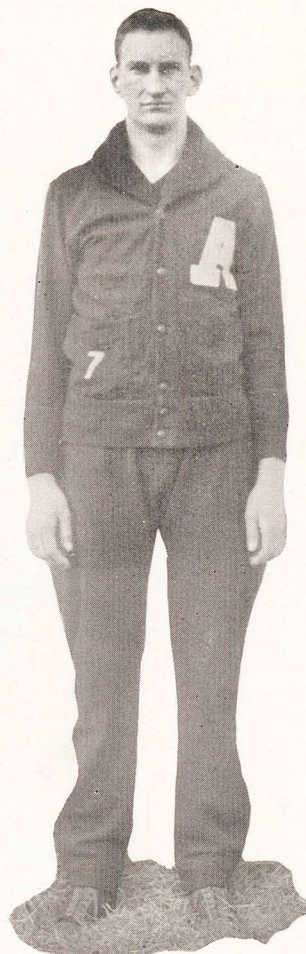

BASSETT

In 1930, the Razorbacks won the Southwest Conference title without the services of a single substitute who was up to Conference standard. In 1931, with probably the best reserve material in the loop, the Hogs wound up the season in third place. All of which tends to disprove the old adage in sport that a team is no stronger than its reserves.

When Coach Bassett took over Schmidt's reins as head coach of basketball in 1930, he made a radical departure from the Schmidtian system by changing from a fast breaking offense to one that was slow breaking. It worked superlatively in 1930, when a team not up to Arkansas standards won the title. But in 1931 Bassett was not quite successful.

Although the squad was lacking in experience with two sophomores in the starting lineup and the three first string reserves serving their first year on the team, man for man the aggregation looked nearly as good as anything in the Conference. Sexton, who made the All-American third team his sophomore year, was easily the outstanding guard of the Conference; and no other team had a better guard than Creighton. Gibson, captain-elect, is an excellent player despite the fact that he rode the bench part of the year. Murphy was as clever a forward as the Conference possessed, although his shooting was not any too accurate. And Captain Pickren, and Holt were of tried ability. Pickren's reputation from 1930, however, made him a target for enemy guards, and he finished far down in the scoring.

PICKREN

Bottom Row: Gibson, Sexton, Sub-Captain Holt, Captain Pickren, Creighton, Murphy.

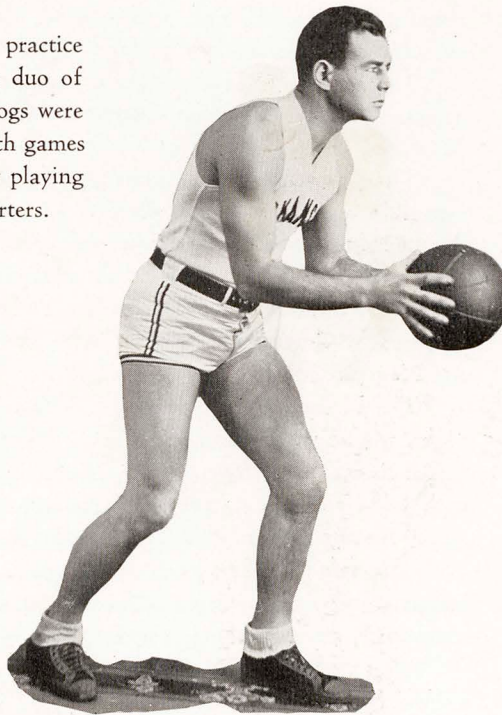

Resume of the Season

As usual, the Razorbacks began the season by playing several practice games with non-conference teams early in the season. The first duo of contests with the Tahlequah Teachers revealed the fact that the Hogs were going to have quite a tussle trying to retain the title. Although both games were won without great difficulty, the locals evinced enough faulty playing to cause considerable perturbation on the part of Arkansas supporters.

And then when the Pittsburg, Kansas, Teachers came to Fayetteville the next week end and handed the locals a couple of plasterings, morose vaticinators predicted that the close of the season would discover the championship in Texas. The Kansas pedagogues won by scores of 40-31 and 28-26. The second game was a hair-raiser.

During the Christmas holidays the Boars lastaured the Colonial Bakers of Little Rock in two games by identical scores—30-27. Captain Pickren was hot the first night and deposited six field goals and a charity throw through the mesh to lead the field in scoring. Sexton was the outstanding luminary of the second contest.

The Razorbacks then invaded the frigid North and had all their pep frozen, with the result that Butler University won a game at Indianapolis in a romp, 39-21. Sexton and Creighton put up a brilliant battle, but the Southwest Conference boys were completely outclassed.

On the way back the Shoats dropped another for good measure, this time to St. Louis University, 24-18. Arkansas then opened the Conference by subduing the Texas Longhorns at Austin, 29-21. Holt was high point man. But the next night found Texas emerging the victors, 27-25, for no reason whatsoever except over-confidence on the part of the vanquished.

The Razorbacks looked better the next week on their home court, the Rice Owls being conquered in two games. This was the only Conference series that Arkansas did not split. Both games were fairly close, 36-32 and 31-25. Sexton was easily the outstanding performer on the court on both nights.

The Texas Aggies next invaded the Ozarks with only a mediocre team; but mediocrity at all times is commendable, and the series was divided. Arkansas won the first contest easily, 39-19, and, as in the Texas series, dropped the second through over-confidence, 34-37. But that second game was the highlight of the season, because for the brief space of four minutes the Razorbacks looked the old point-a-minute aggregations of Schmidt. With but four minutes left, and the home team trailing 37-16, Arkansas suddenly got plenty hot. With Holt, Gibson, and Kendall leading the attack with long, frantic shots, and Sexton and Holt following, the Hogs tallied 18 points, and might have won the game if it had lasted another minute.

The Horned Frogs of Schmidt, who eventually won the title, treated the Pigs rather roughly the first night, winning with ease, 35-26, with Dietzel, Gargantuan center, chalking up 22 points. But the next night Coach Bassett put Sexton on him, Dietzel didn't ring up but three meager points, and the visitors won, 30-29, with Jelks, a substitute, providing the winning margin. With but three minutes to go, and Arkansas trailing, 22-29, Bassett sent in Jelks. Jelks took five long shots at the mesh, four of them hit the mark, and the Christians lost their first game of the season. It was the roughest game of the year, at least from an Arkansas standpoint, as Captain Pickren, Gibson, Creighton, and Holt were all removed from the game on personal fouls, and Murphy was kicked out for slugging.

After the game a near-riot occurred in the dressing room between the players. A general brawl was only averted by the interposition of the coaches and officials. And Francis A. Schmidt wasn't in any too good humor over the loss of a game by one point. If the All-American selection board had heard him express his opinion of the basketball abilities of Adolph ("Too-Tall") Dietzel as evidenced in that particular game, they would have had Dietzel arrested for putting on a basketball suit.

CHAMBERS

SEXTON, ALL-AMERICAN

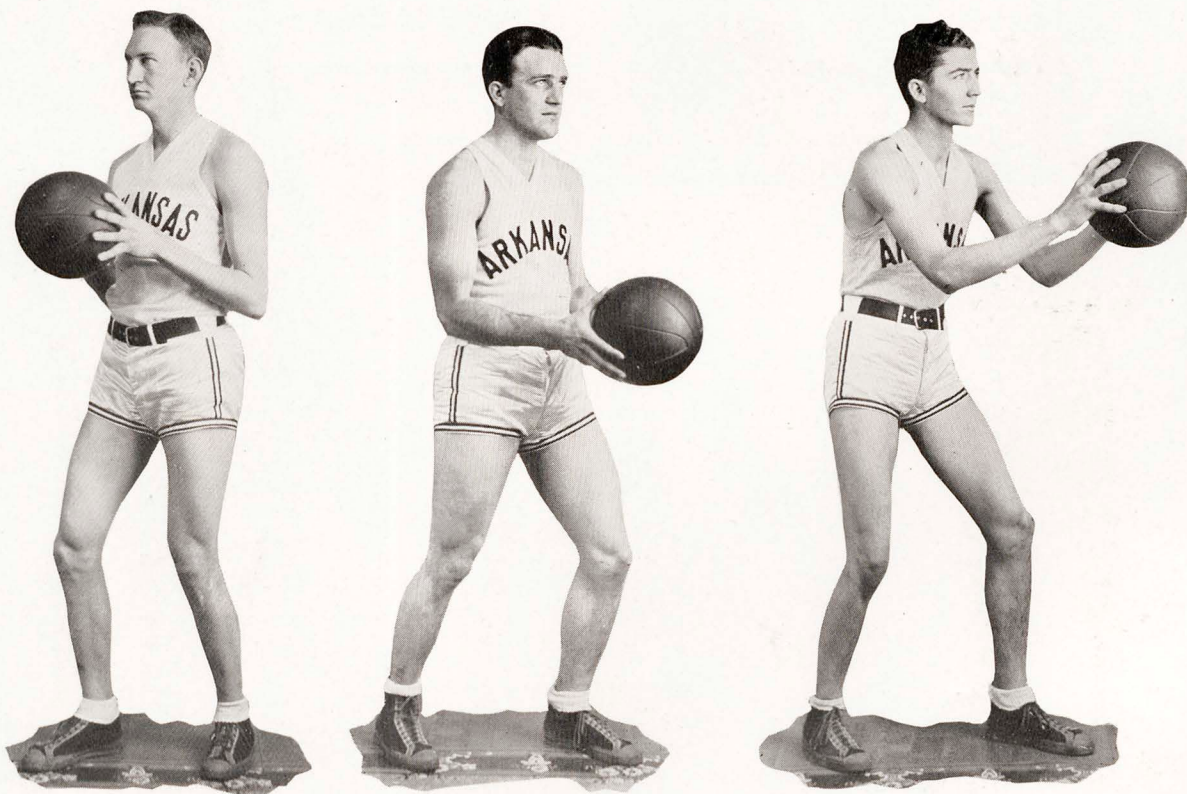

St. Louis U. then came to Fayetteville for a return engagement and in a game that was like a horrendous nightmare the locals evened the count by a score of 33-30. That game off their mind, the Pigs began resting on their laurels again, relaxing into a coma, and the concomitant was a stinging 27-29 defeat at the hands of the Baylor Bears in the next game played. The Shoats compiled an early lead, but lost it in the final few minutes of play. The Razorbacks thought that their trusting innocence had been taken advantage of, and they wrathfully routed the Baptists the following night, 29-25, despite spectacular basket flipping by Alford, Bear forward. McCorkle, Bear captain, starred in both games, while Holt, Sexton, and Creighton looked best for Arkansas.

Oklahoma A. and M. invaded Arkansas and added a couple of games to their loss column, 22-29 and 22-37. Coach Bassett used his substitutes considerably during both games, starting his entire second team the last game. The Aggies were impotent against anything Arkansas had to offer.

The final series of the year was played at Dallas against Southern Methodist University. It was a most important series, as the Conference title depended upon the outcome. Arkansas deflowered the Methodists, 32-27, the first night, with Murphy, Pickren, and Gibson playing their best brand of basketball of the year. Williams, star S. M. U. forward, was off form, but little Johnson played a noble game.

The next night resulted differently, however. The visitors collapsed and the religious heirs of John Wesley rolled up 40 points, the largest total compiled against an Arkansas team in years. Most of the Arkansas points were scored from far down the court, mainly by Holt and "Preacher" Gibson. This game was the roughest ever seen at Dallas. Captain Pickren grabbed some unfortunate opponent around the neck and carried him out the front door and down a flight of steps and came back in grinning like a jackass eating briars. Murphy slugged the opposition around in characteristic fashion and the other boys on both teams got in some satisfactory blows.

Holt, Creighton, and Pickren, all regulars, will graduate, but, paradoxically, the prospects for next year are very bright, despite the fact that Bull Rose discovered no amazing prospects on his Frosh squad. But when a coach can have men like Gibson, Sexton, Murphy, Jelks, and Kendall in a starting lineup with the benefits of a year's Conference experience, he has an aggregation that will be a constant threat. All five of these men have two more years of Conference competition before them, and, even if they do fail to bring the Southwest gonfalon back to the Ozarks, at least they will furnish plenty of lively competition to all of the Texas members of the Conference. They will be hard to handle, and, in addition, will be one of the most colorful teams to ever wear the Cardinal and White.

Minor Sports

Tennis

Arkansas' only undefeated tennis season was marred by a tie with a previously defeated team in the last match of the year. Three other matches were engaged in and all three won by substantial scores.

Northeastern State Teachers College of Tahlequah, Oklahoma, came to the University to open the varsity tennis season and were defeated four matches to two. Arkansas then journeyed to Springfield, Missouri, where the Springfield Teachers were kalsomined, the home team not winning any of the six matches. This was the first clean sweep in the history of Razorback athletics.

A week later the varsity made another trip, this time to Tulsa, Oklahoma, where Tulsa University was conquered by four matches to one. The final match was called off on account of darkness.

Two days after the Tulsa trip, Arkansas made another invasion of Oklahoma for a return match with Tahlequah. This time the varsity was without the services of the number 2 man, Nettleship, and the best that could be done was a tie.

Five letters were granted to the team. Captain Walter Pittman received his third stripe; sub-captain Burton Robbins also was awarded a third stripe; Andy Nettleship received his second stripe; and Clyde Brown and captain-elect Oliver Harvey both were awarded their first letter.

Brown and Harvey will be the only two letter men back next year, but with the addition of Tom Lovett, ineligible this year, and a couple of the outstanding freshmen candidates, the team next year should be a still stronger combination. At least, Coach Bull Rose is optimistic about 1932's prospects.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

The Women's Rifle Team was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1930 by Captain H. F. Thompson, who coached the team. Franklin Wintker and O. J. Henbest, senior students in Military Art, assisted Captain Thompson in instructing the women in the use of the rifle.

University R. O. T. C. Band

Under the direction of Francis Judah Foutz, the band has come to the front as a University organization. The band has furnished an indispensable part of the big athletic events of the University. Parades have helped to add zest and interest to the football games, even on foreign gridirons. The band also plays at all basketball games.

A regular part of the band season is spent in the preparation and playing of several concerts and an ever-increasing selection of numbers over KUOA, the University of Arkansas broadcasting station.

The band continued its practice of forming letters at football games between halves. A number of trick and fancy formations were used, but only after hours of practice. The closest co-operation is maintained between the band and the Rootin' Rubes and The Arkansas Boosters Club, women's and men's pep organizations, respectively.

The band is divided into two divisions, one the official R. O. T. C. band, which plays at all parades and is present on all military occasions; the other the pep band which plays at athletic contests and all other special events. The R. O. T. C. band wears the official military uniform supplied by the United States Government. The other section of the band is smaller, only the best of the R. O. T. C. band being a part of it. Special uniforms, purchased in 1928, are worn by this unit, and the band makes a flashy appearance when attired in them.

Several new members were added to the band at the beginning of the school year, and the band was the best that has ever represented the University of Arkansas. The organization accompanied the football team to Little Rock for the Arkansas-Texas A. and M. game there in October, and also went with the team to Shreveport for the annual Arkansas-Louisiana State University game at the Louisiana State Fair in November.

New instruments have been purchased for the band by the Government, and the year 1931-'32 should be the best that the band has ever experienced.

Kappa Sigma

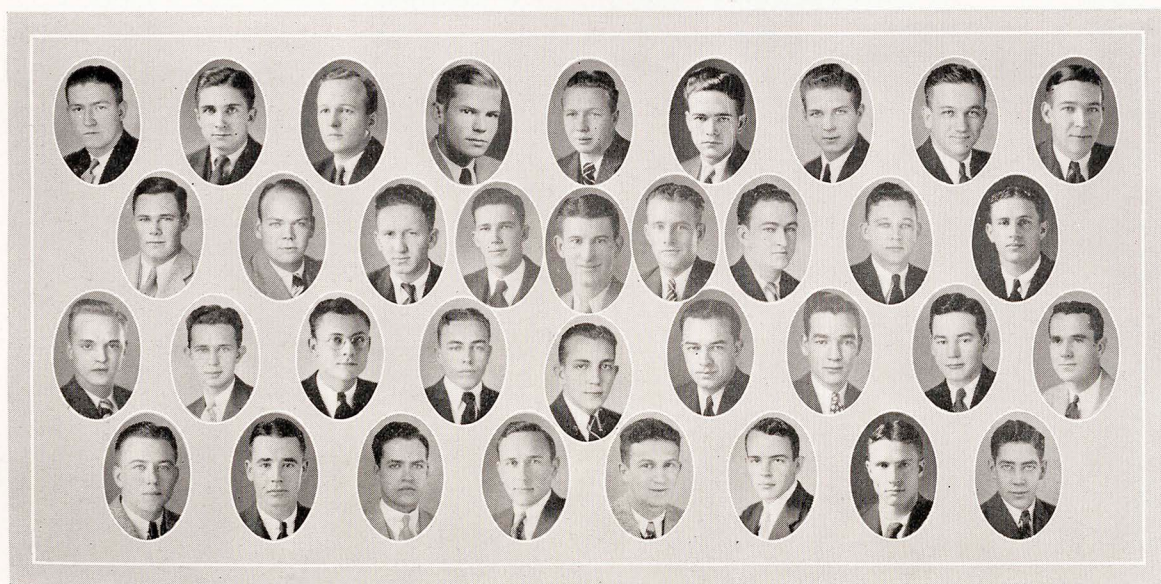

*Founded at the University of Virginia, 1869.
Xi Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1890.*

Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Virginia, December 10, 1869, by William G. McCormick, George M. Arnold, Edmund Law Rogers, Jr., Frank C. Nicodemus and John C. Boyd.

From its inception it was intended that Kappa Sigma should expand into other institutions and become a widespread organization, but it was not until 1873 that the founders saw their plans take definite shape, although a chapter had been established at the University of Alabama shortly after the parent chapter was organized.

Arkansas Xi Chapter was established in 1890. The chapter existed as the Richardson Club, named after Dr. Charles Richardson of Fayetteville, during the time the fraternities were barred from the Arkansas campus, between the years 1901 and 1903.

The regular conventions, called grand conclaves, are held every two years—since 1915 in the odd-numbered years,—usually in mid-summer. Publications are "The Caduceus," monthly magazine, and the "Star and Crescent."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

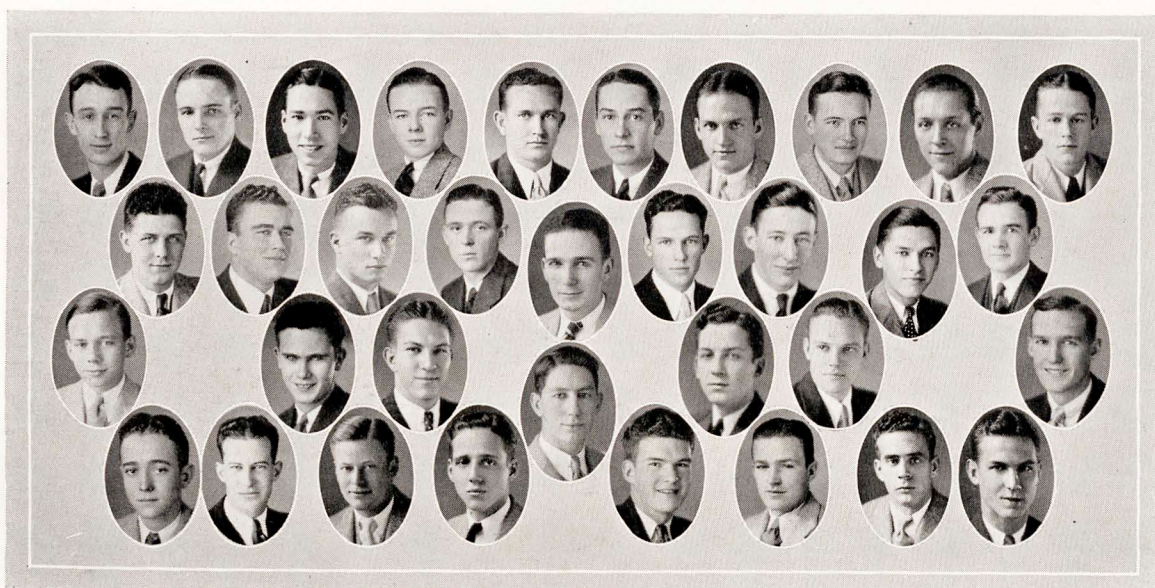

Founded at the University of Alabama, 1856.

Alpha Epsilon Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1893.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded in 1856 by eight students of the University of Alabama, who had become hard and fast friends. In its early days it remained in the South, the first chapter north of the Mason and Dixon line being established just before the Civil War. At present the orders number one hundred and three active chapters with an initiated membership of over 36,000. Working in collaboration with the active chapters are one hundred and five alumni associations in American cities and in Paris, France. Of these, there are three in this state. Publications are fraternity histories, directories, secret publications, and the periodical magazine, "The Record," which is a quarterly with a circulation of 30,000.

National headquarters are maintained at Evanston, Illinois. In the National house, owned by S. A. E., there is a large library of books concerning fraternity subjects in general and a museum devoted to the American college fraternity. Conventions are held biennially, and in alternate years province conventions meet. The local chapter, Arkansas Alpha Epsilon, was established on the University campus in 1894 with a chapter enrollment of 17.

Kappa Alpha

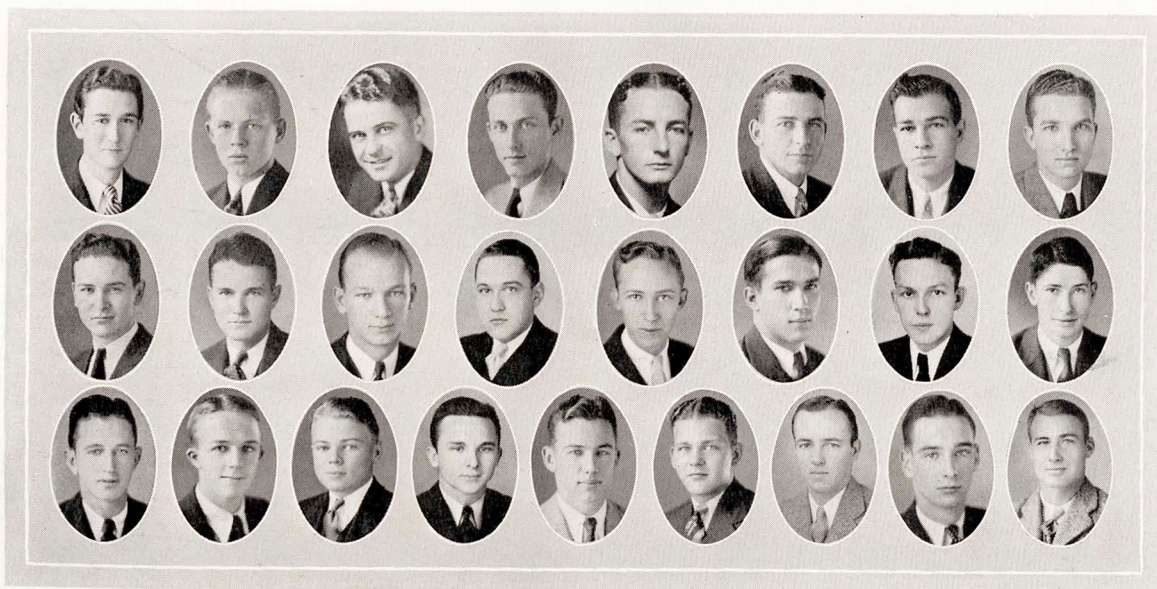

Founded at Washington and Lee University, 1865.

Alpha Omicron Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1895.

Kappa Alpha Order was founded December 21, 1865, at Washington and Lee University. The bleeding South was just emerging from the Civil War, and four students of what was then Washington College banded together to start a movement to foster and maintain the manners, customs, and ideals of the Southern people. They looked to Robert E. Lee, who was at that time president of Washington College, as their ideal.

Kappa Alpha has confined itself to the South. The order now has 67 chapters located in the principal colleges and universities of the South. Alpha Omicron was installed April 27, 1895. Before binding itself to the national fraternity, it was a local fraternity of ten men.

The Kappa Alpha Order is organized in seven provinces and these are officiated by Province Commanders, Secretaries, and Alumni Historians. Over these provinces are a Knight Commander, a Grand Purser, a Grand Historian, and a Chief Alumnus. Professor Allan S. Humphreys, a member of the local chapter, is now serving as Grand Purser. Official publications are the Kappa Alpha Journal, The Special Messenger, Directory, and Kappa Alpha song book.

Sigma Nu

Founded at Virginia Military Institute, 1869.

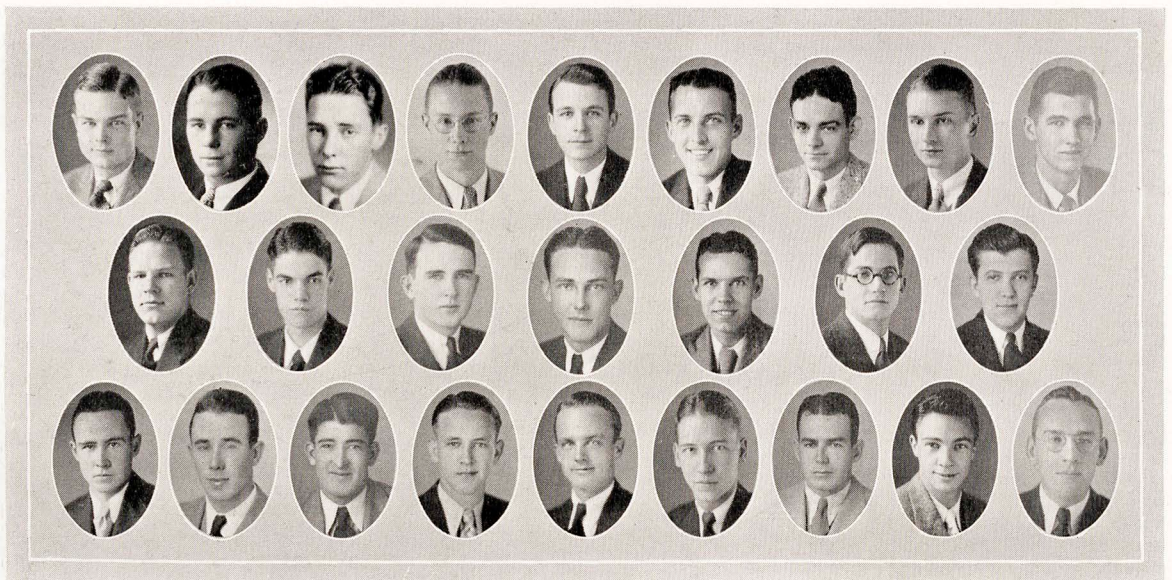

Gamma Upsilon Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1904

Sigma Nu originated from the Legion of Honor, a secret organization, when the Greek letter name was adopted on January 1, 1869, at the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Virginia. James F. Hopkins of Arkansas was the recognized leader of the Legion of Honor, which opposed the overbearing control of another secret society. Hopkins, designer of the badge of Sigma Nu, was associated with Greenville Quarles and James M. Riley in the formation of the fraternity.

The chapters were not given Greek letter names at first, but were designated by Roman numerals in order of their establishment. There are now ninety-six active chapters with a total membership of about 27,781.

Official publications include The Delta, quarterly periodical, the Sigma Nu Song Book, The Story of Sigma Nu, and Sigma Nu catalogues.

The Gamma Upsilon chapter was established at the University of Arkansas in 1904.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Founded at the University of Virginia, 1868.

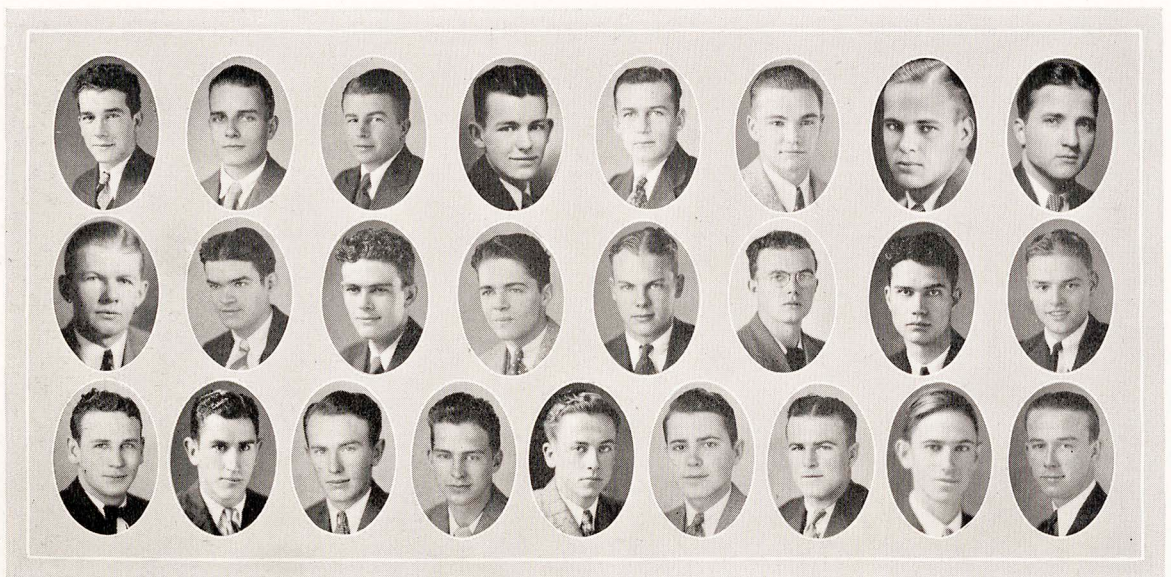

Alpha Zeta Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1904

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded at the University of Virginia, March 1, 1868, by Frederick Southgate Taylor, Littleton Waller Tazewell, Julien Edward Wood, Robertson Norward, James Benjamin Sclater, and William Alexander. At first the fraternity was sectional, being confined to the South, but conservative expansion has resulted in an organization which is located in the larger institutions throughout the country.

At present the fraternity numbers seventy-nine active chapters, and has numerous active alumni chapters scattered throughout the United States.

Alpha Zeta chapter of the University of Arkansas was chartered November 2, 1904, there being ten charter members. It was established early in the year 1905, and was the first chapter west of the Mississippi.

The Shield and Diamond, the official publication, is issued five times a year, containing news from all the chapters and topics of fraternity interest. The secret publication of the fraternity is the Dagger and Key.

Sigma Chi

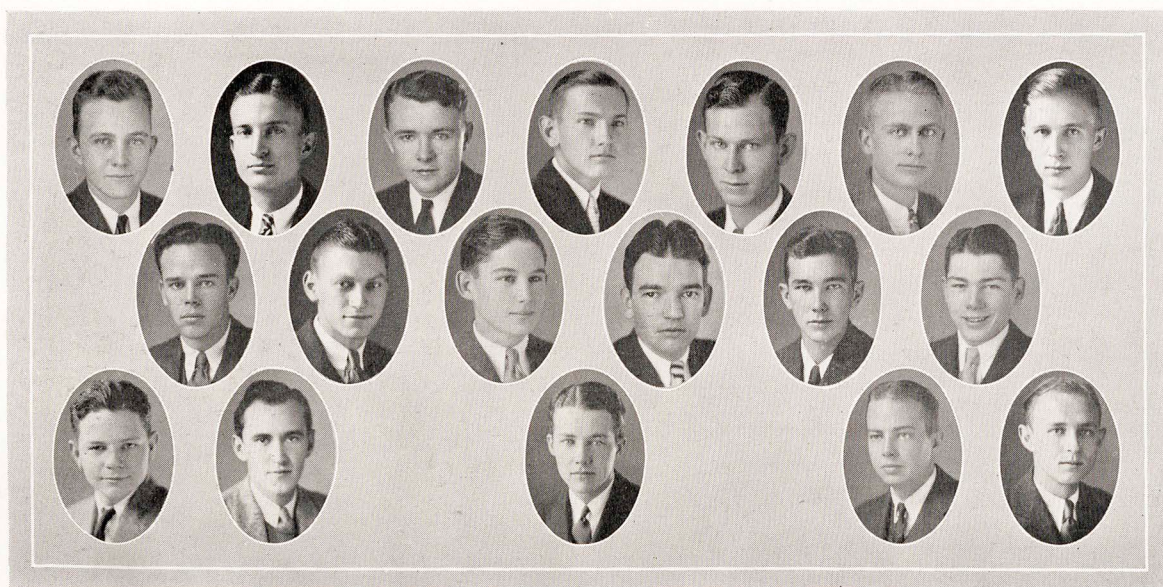

Founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 1855.

Omega Omega Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1905.

Sigma Chi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, on June 28, 1855, by Thomas C. Bell, James P. Caldwell, F. H. Scobey, Daniel William Cooper, Isaac M. Jordan, Benjamin Piatt Runkle, and William L. Lockwood, who, with the exception of the last, had been members of Kappa Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon. It was the nineteenth college fraternity founded and the third to be founded at Miami University, the other two being Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta, which, with Sigma Chi, form the Miami Triad. The fraternity was first announced as Sigma Phi, but in 1856 the name was changed to Sigma Chi, due to the fact that the ritual and records of the chapter were stolen and that there existed at that time an eastern fraternity known as Sigma Phi.

The fraternity was carried on during the Civil War by a very unique group, the Constantine Chapter, which was composed of seven Sigma Chis who were in the Confederate Army. Its purpose was to perpetuate the fraternity in the South, regardless of the outcome of the war. Two initiations were held and the chapter remained active until the close of the war. Sigma Chi was the first Greek-letter fraternity to adopt a private publication, which was established in 1877.

Sigma Chi consists of 91 chapters that are active, and twenty that are inactive. Two of the chapters are in Canada. The official publication is the Magazine of Sigma Chi.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

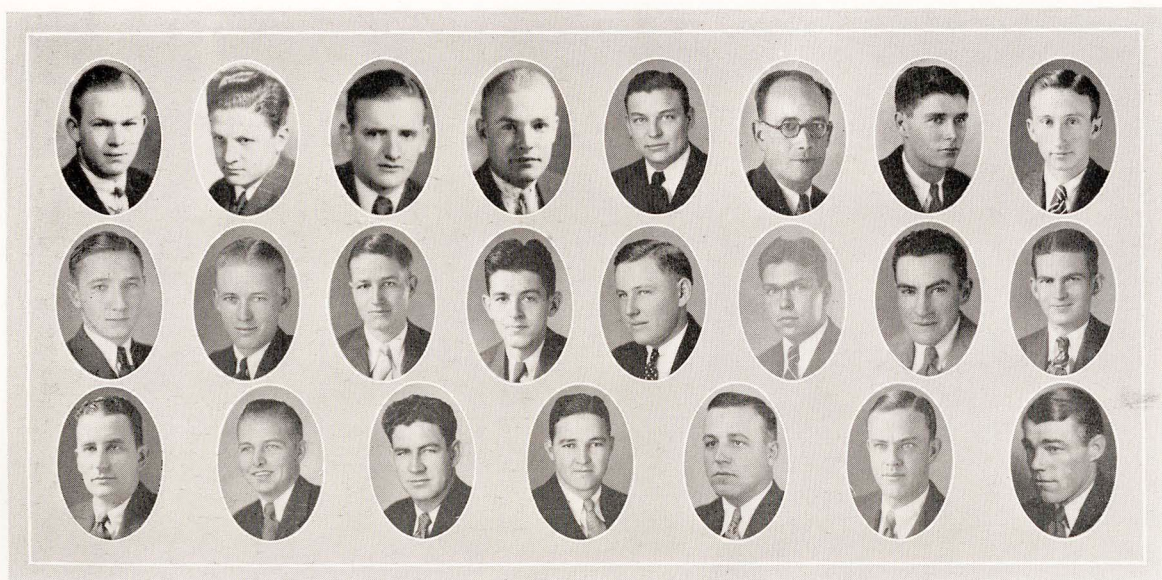

Founded at the University of Richmond, 1901.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1907.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded at Richmond College (now the University of Richmond), Richmond, Virginia, in November, 1901. The basis of the organization was a society called the Saturday Night Club.

One of the features of the fraternity is the financial plan. Concerning this, Baird's Manual says: "In 1916 the Purdue chapter surrendered all its property to the alumni who devised a plan of operation, since copyrighted by the fraternity as the Purdue Plan and now known as the 'Sigma Epsilon Plan of Finance.' Under this plan financial affairs of the chapters are entirely in the hands of the alumni, the inexperienced undergraduate being relieved of this burden and so left free to devote all time to fraternal matters. The plan which worked so successfully at Purdue has been installed in all the chapters."

Arkansas Alpha chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas in 1907. The publication of the order is the Sigma Phi Epsilon Journal, published monthly.

The headquarters of Lambda Chi Alpha are at Indianapolis, Indiana, under the managership of Bruce H. McIntosh, administrative secretary. It has two full-time salaried secretaries who make chapter visitations twice a year.

The two major ideals of the fraternity are "Service" and "Fraternalism."

Theta Phi Delta was founded at the University of Arkansas November 1, 1923, by Garland Stubblefield and Phil Deal. It was chartered as a Zeta in the national fraternity May 24, 1925. The publications of the fraternity are "The Purple, Green, and Gold," and the "Cross and Crescent."

Theta Kappa Nu

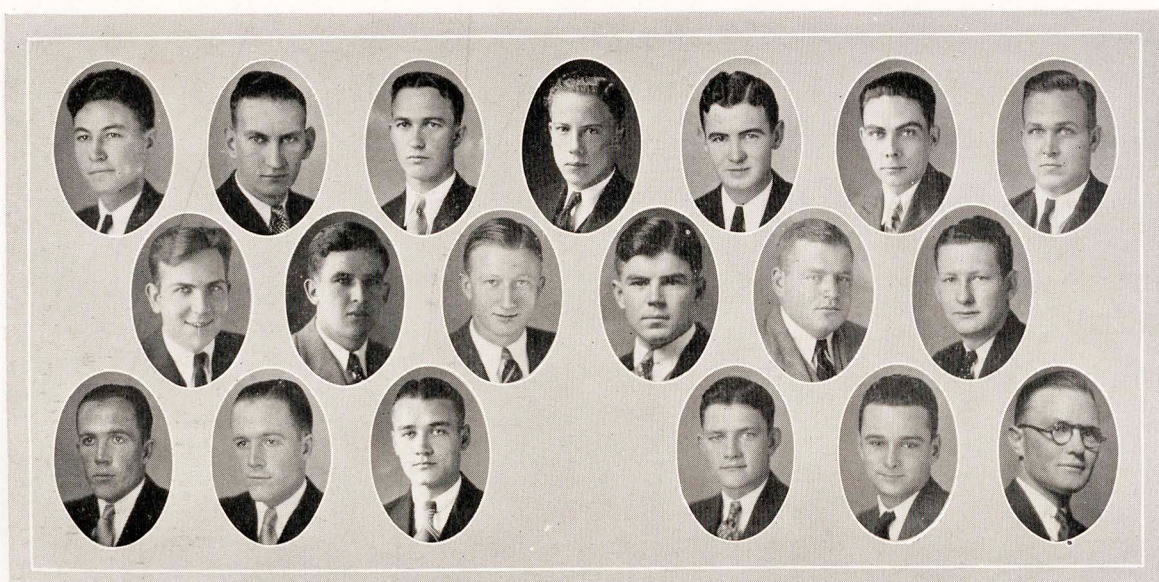

Founded by the Interfraternity Amalgamation, 1924.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1926.

Theta Kappa Nu was never founded; it was amalgamated. If founding dates back to the first chapter of a fraternity, Theta Kappa Nu was born in 1867 at Culver-Stockton College in Missouri. But in this consolidation decade Theta Kappa Nu represents the merger plan applied to the fraternal world. At a meeting in Springfield, Missouri, in 1924, eight old established locals and a small national fraternity of three chapters assumed the same obligations. Theta Kappa Nu then is unique in having no mother chapters.

There are 55 chapters of Theta Kappa Nu. Arkansas Alpha, in accordance with national rules, owns its home. Activities and scholarship have been the stressed features of the local group.

Plans for the future of Arkansas Alpha of Theta Kappa Nu are for intensive improvement in the form of restricted pledging of new men; extensive improvement in favorable publicity as pertains to scholarship, morality, and good will.

Alpha Lambda Tau

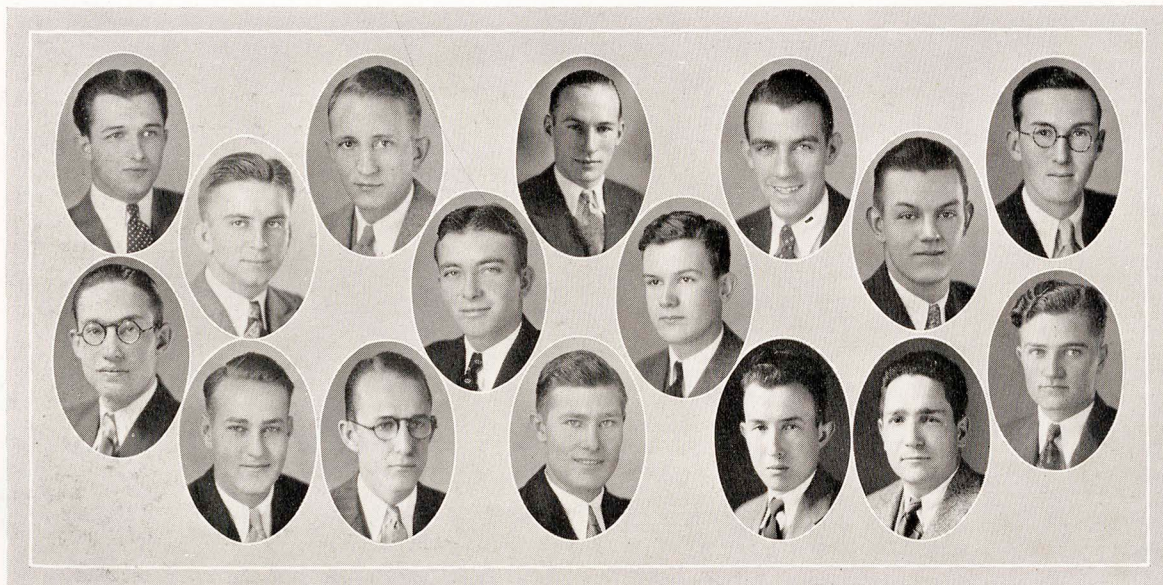

Founded at Oglethorpe University, 1916.

Mu Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1928.

Alpha Lambda Tau was founded at Oglethorpe University October 8, 1916, the first fraternal organization on the campus. The prime motive of the founders was the desire to have a new fraternity grow with a new university. For ten years there was an unconfirmed opinion among the members that the fraternity was to be forever confined to the South. Several years ago, however, this subject was discussed in convention and repudiated. Since then the lone northern chapter has been established at the University of Illinois. The fraternity was founded to be a national organization, and although expansion has been extremely slow, a national survey has been carried out through the Central Office during the last four years.

The government of the organization is centralized through a Central Office located in Atlanta, Georgia, and a yearly convention in which all chapters participate legislates on important changes and measures affecting the organization.

The fraternity issues a quarterly known as the Rose Leaf and a monthly esoteric publication, The Alt. The first named, during the early years of the fraternity, was issued irregularly, but in recent years has been published regularly.

Delta Tau Sigma

Local Chapter Founded at the University of Arkansas, 1929.

Delta Tau Sigma was established at the University of Arkansas in the spring of 1929 by nine men who desired to found a social fraternity for Jewish students. The group desired some kind of association that would create ties of friendship that would endure through life. In the spring of 1930 it was pledged by Sigma Alpha Mu, a national Jewish fraternity comprising forty chapters. Sigma Alpha Mu was founded at the College of the City of New York on Thanksgiving Eve, November 26, 1910, by Hyman I. Jacobson, Lester Cohen, Jacob Kaplan, Ira N. Lind, David Levinson, Samuel Ginsberg, Abraham Kerner and Adolph I. Fabis. Their object was written in the preamble of the fraternity's constitution "to form a close social and fraternal union of Jewish students of the various universities, colleges and professional schools in America; to foster and maintain among its sons a spirit of fraternity, a spirit of mutual and moral aid and support; to instil and maintain in the hearts of its sons love for and loyalty to Alma Mater and its ideals; to inculcate among its sons such ideals as will result in actions worthy of the highest precepts of true manhood, democracy and humanity."

With the establishment of Beta Chapter at Cornell University in September, 1911, Sigma Alpha Mu began its expansion on a national scale.

Phi Epsilon

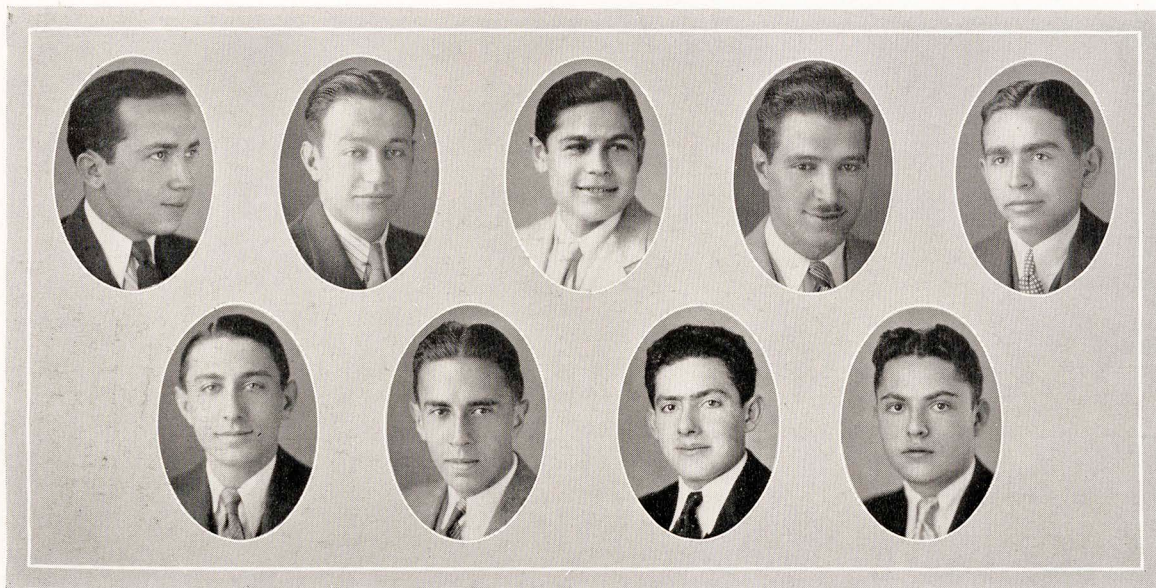

Local Fraternity Founded at the University of Arkansas, 1930.

Phi Epsilon was organized on the University of Arkansas campus in May, 1930, as a Jewish local fraternity in order to perpetuate in a social group the ideals and aspirations of Judaism.

It was in accordance with this desire that the fraternity inaugurated the regular Friday night services for the first time on the University of Arkansas campus. These services are open to all Jewish students.

At present this group is completing steps towards affiliation with one of the foremost national Jewish fraternities in the country.

From a nucleus of seven men, the organization has expanded until the present number has reached fifteen, one of whom is at present attending the medical school at Little Rock. The group now occupies a spacious house at 612 Storer street.

A Thorn Among Three Roses

Women's Panhellenic

TRIBBLE

The Women's Panhellenic Association of the University of Arkansas is composed of two representatives from each sorority on the campus. At present there are seven organizations belonging to the Association.

The purpose of the Association is to regulate rushing and other interfraternity matters, to promote cooperation and good feeling between the chapters, and to work together for the good of the University and its women students.

Once each year the Association holds an open meeting for all sorority girls. On these occasions some national officer of a society makes an address.

Until 1927 sorority rushing was a grave problem on the University of Arkansas campus, and the Women's Panhellenic undertook to remedy the defective system then in effect. Under the present system of rushing there is little or no friction between the sororities.

Miss Martha Reid, Dean of Women at the University, is the faculty adviser for the Association, and to her should be given much of the credit for the success of its administration. Meetings of the Panhellenic are held once a month in the office of the Dean of Women, with Miss Reid present.

Chi Omega

Founded at the University of Arkansas, 1895.

Psi Chapter

Chi Omega was organized at the University of Arkansas April 5, 1895, by Ina Mae Boles, Jobelle Holcombe, Alice Carey Simmonds, and Jeanne Marie Vincenheller. They were assisted in planning their organization by Dr. Charles Richardson, Kappa Sigma, who, in consideration of this service, was made sole honorary member.

There are at present 87 active chapters and two inactive. The total membership is now about 16,000.

The open declaration of Chi Omega is "Hellenic Culture and Christian Ideals." Included in the program of the fraternity is the Service Fund, the income of which is used to publish special research studies in educational, social, scientific, or civic lines.

The Chi Omega memorial theatre that was erected in the spring of 1930 on the Arkansas campus was dedicated last June.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Founded at Virginia State Normal, 1898.

Epsilon Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1903.

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded as the Virginia State Alpha, Virginia State Normal School at Farmville, Virginia, October 15, 1898, and was chartered as a legal corporation by the legislature of Virginia, March 18, 1902. Since the former date the fraternity has expanded until it now has sixty-seven chapters located in the United States and Canada.

Government of the fraternity is vested in a grand chapter composed of five officers. The legislative government is vested in a convention. The fraternity's central office is located at Beaumont, Texas. Chapters of Zeta Tau Alpha are grouped in twelve provinces, with a province president appointed over each. There is a scholarship loan fund, not necessarily limited to members of the fraternity.

Epsilon chapter was established at the University of Arkansas on December 18, 1903, and was the second national women's fraternity on the campus. The local which petitioned Zeta Tau Alpha was named Delta Phi. Epsilon was the fourth established chapter of the fraternity.

Pi Beta Phi

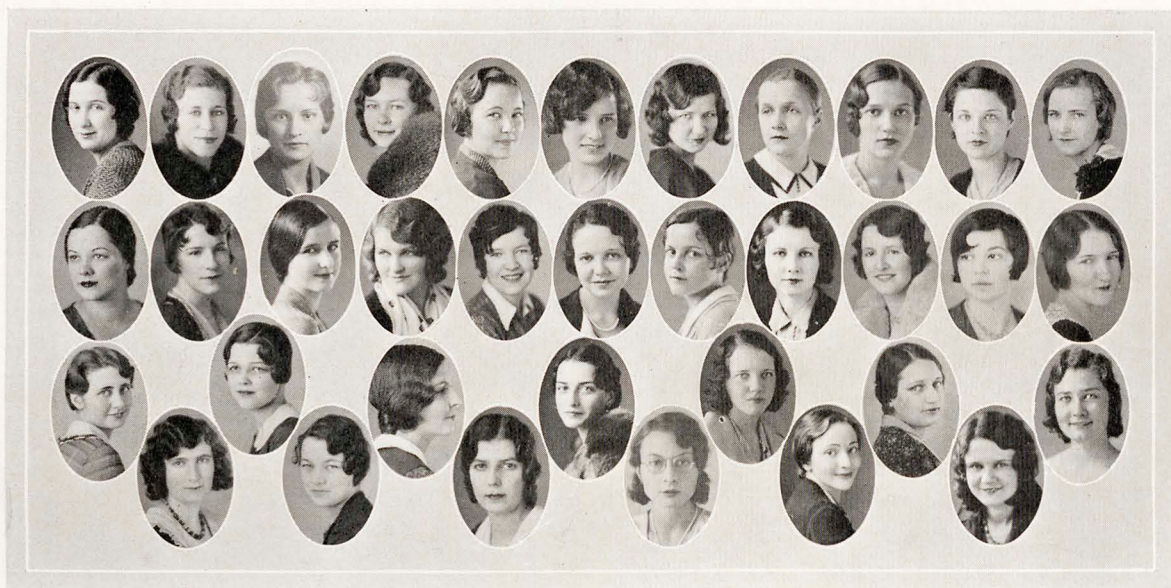

Founded at Monmouth College, 1867.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1909.

Pi Beta Phi was founded in 1867 at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, and was the first organization of college women founded upon the principles and organized with the aims and policies of a national fraternity. It was originally called I. C. Sorosis, but in 1888 the name was changed to Pi Beta Phi Fraternity, and as such it is incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois. The fraternity now has 78 active chapters located in the leading colleges and universities of the United States and Canada. Pi Beta Phi has 144 chartered Alumnae Clubs. The total active membership of the fraternity is approximately 19,000.

The fraternity, by voluntary contributions of members and alumnae, maintains a Settlement School at Gatlinburg, Tenn., established in 1912 as a memorial to the 12 founders of Pi Beta Phi. Situated on over one hundred acres of its own land in eight well-equipped buildings, the school offers work covering eleven grades. It has an enrollment of nearly 150 and a teaching staff of nine members. Total assets of the Settlement School are now $81,000.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter of Pi Beta Phi was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1909. A great deal of progress has been made this year on a building program. A new $40,000 home was completed in February. The publication is "The Arrow."

Delta Delta Delta

Founded at Boston University, 1888.

Delta Iota Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1913.

Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University, Thanksgiving Eve, 1888. The founders, Eleanor Dorcas Pond and Ida Shaw Martin, on that day associated with them twenty undergraduates and organized as a national sorority. The spirit of Delta Delta Delta has so been shared that there are now seventy-six college chapters and eighty alumnae chapters in the United States and Canada. Delta Delta Delta now numbers in its membership more than 15,000 women.

The local chapter of Delta Delta Delta, Delta Iota, was granted a charter November 15, 1913. The anniversary of the chapter is celebrated annually by the return of Tri Deltas from all parts of the state to the chapter house for the Delta banquet given on that day.

Delta Delta Delta sponsors three endowment funds, the National Endowment Fund, the Trident Endowment Fund, and the Visiting Endowment Fund. The sorority is now building up a Thanksgiving Endowment Fund which is to be used for altruistic purposes among college women to further higher education. The three publications of Delta Delta Delta are the Trireme, the Triglyph, and the Trident. The sorority also publishes a song book to which the local chapter has made several contributions.

Phi Mu

*Founded at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, 1852.
Alpha Beta Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1923.*

Phi Mu is the second oldest secret organization for women in the United States. It was founded at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, on January 4, 1852, and was announced to the world on March 4, 1852. Phi Mu now has sixty collegiate chapters and forty-four alumnae associations with 8,000 alumnae.

The Phi Mu Fraternity selected the health-mobile in Georgia as its outstanding piece of philanthropic work and it stands unique as fraternity work. To have given such a contribution to her mother state was not only a noble idea, but it has proven a splendid piece of substantial medical missionary work. The health-mobile, with the name Phi Mu painted on its side, spreads a light of good-will and hope of health to many thousands in Georgia who see it pass, or who take advantage of its beneficial work; and it holds the name of Phi Mu as a beacon light to all organizations aspiring to religious, missionary, or idealistic work. To the Phi Mus it brings a thrill of pride and gratitude.

In addition a $1,000 scholarship is offered each year to the Association for College Women of America. Any girl is eligible for this loan, irrespective of her fraternity, or whether she is a fraternity member or not.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, in March, 1870, but did not make its public appearance until October 13, 1870, the anniversary of which date is observed as Founders' Day. There are now 63 active chapters, including three in Canada; nine inactive chapters, and 99 alumnae associations. The total membership of the fraternity is 17,202.

The management of fraternity affairs is in the hands of the National Council. The fraternity is grouped into ten geographical provinces, which hold biennial province conventions, alternating with the year of the National Convention. The central office is located at Columbus, Ohio.

The fraternity sponsors various philanthropic funds, among which are the Rose McGill Fund and the Students' Aid Fund. The latter was founded in 1902 as a memorial to the founders, and now totals $52,000. It is available as scholarship loans to any woman student in the institutions where Kappa has a chapter.

Publications of the fraternity include a quarterly magazine, "The Key," the song book, and a catalogue of members.

Delta Gamma

Founded at Lewis School, Oxford, Mississippi, 1874.

Alpha Omega Chapter Established at the University of Arkansas, 1930.

Delta Gamma was founded at Lewis School, Oxford, Mississippi, on January 2, 1874. It was the first national women's social fraternity to have its beginning in the South. There are 46 active chapters, 12 inactive, and its membership is about 12,000.

Five editions of the catalogue have been published since 1888, five of the song books since 1895 (a sixth now ready for publication), and two histories since 1901. The journal is the "Anchor," which has been published annually since 1884.

A $50,000 student loan fund provides funds to assist worthwhile undergraduates.

Delta Gamma's outstanding philanthropic work is the Delta Gamma Clinic in Marchienne, Belgium, which was established during the war. $28,000 was raised for the aid of Belgian refugee children.

Prominent members include Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College; Ruth Bryan Owens, Congresswoman from Florida, and Grace Abbot, head of the United States Children's Bureau, who was chosen as one of America's twelve great women.

Alpha Omega chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas on October 10, 1930.

Blue Key, honor fraternity, was founded at the University of Florida in October, 1924, by Major Bert C. Riley. A national organization was established in February, 1925. Blue Key recognizes outstanding qualities in character, scholarship, student activities, leadership, and service. Membership is composed of graduate and undergraduate students of all departments of American colleges and universities. Honorary membership is extended to a limited number of faculty members and alumni. The fraternity is committed to co-operate with the faculty; to study student problems; stimulate progress and promote the interests of the institutions where it has chapters.

The badge is an oblong key of gold on the surface of which appears a spreadeagle; in the mouth of the eagle is a wreath of laurel; at the feet, on the lower point of the cross, is a star. Outside of the oval in which these symbols appear, the corners of the key are brilliant azure blue.

Tau Beta Pi is an honorary society founded at Lehigh University, June, 1885, under the leadership of Professor E. H. Williams, Jr. Its purpose is to confer distinction upon those students who have maintained a high grade of scholarship and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering students in the institutions in which its chapters are located. When a chapter is established it may confer its key upon its alumni and students of earlier years in analogy to a similar custom in Phi Beta Kappa.

Membership may be offered to graduates of engineering colleges where there is no chapter, provided the recipient has fulfilled the regular eligibility requirements as a student. Membership of distinction may be conferred upon prominent engineers who may or may not already be members of the society.

Alpha Chapter was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1914. It has been active ever since. Election is considered one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon an engineer.

Scholarship, development in Agriculture, and brotherhood among members may be listed among the purposes of Alpha Zeta, National Honorary Agricultural Fraternity. During this school year, 1930 and 1931, Arkansas Chapter has listed to its credit several achievements of note.

Each year the Arkansas Chapter presents two loving cups. One is given to the highest grade point Agricultural freshman who returns to college the succeeding year as a sophomore. The other cup is given as a sweepstakes prize to the winning team in the State Vocational Agricultural Contest sponsored by Alpha Zeta in cooperation with the Agricultural Education Department.

Arkansas chapter was founded in 1917. It numbers among its alumni some of the most prominent Agricultural workers in the South.

Theta Tau was founded at the University of Minnesota on October 15, 1904. It was from the first intended to be a professional general engineering fraternity to inculcate high ethical and professional standards and to foster close fraternal relations among its members. Membership is limited to students of engineering of "personal worthiness and of promising engineering ability." Its scholastic standards are high. It does not permit its members to join other engineering fraternities, either general or departmental, except honorary scholastic organizations, but admits memberships in collegiate social fraternities.

Its general policy is to enter any first-class engineering college or university, and each chapter is permitted to select its members from students following any courses in engineering or geology, as it may desire.

Until 1911 the fraternity was known as "Hammer and Tongs," but it then adopted the Greek letters, which have always appeared on its badge.

The Upsilon Chapter was established at the University of Arkansas in 1928.

Alpha Chi Sigma, honorary chemical fraternity, was founded at the University of Wisconsin in December, 1902. Its membership is drawn from students of chemistry who intend to make some phase of chemistry their life work. Members of undergraduate fraternities are admitted.

From the date of its foundation to 1922, the fraternity was made up of collegiate chapters and alumni chapters, but during the above mentioned year there was a reorganization of the fraternity into two general branches, one of them consisting of the collegiate chapters and the other of the professional chapters. Members of the latter are professional chemists who have been elected in the collegiate chapters.

Phi Mu Alpha, commonly called Sinfonia Fraternity, was organized October 6, 1898, at the New England Conservatory of Music by Ossian E. Mills and thirteen associates. Its organization at first was that of a club, but in 1900 it was determined to expand and form a regular college fraternity, in musical schools of approved excellence.

The local chapter was installed May 31, 1927, through the efforts of Henry D. Tovey, who is one of the charter members. The members meet twice a month at the Green Tree Inn, and after a "Dutch" dinner, hold the meeting. The purpose of the Fraternity is to cultivate the friendships of students interested in music, and to live up to the motto of "Manly Musicians and Musicianly Men."

On many campuses the chapter is conducted as a social fraternity, owning or operating their own homes. This is optional with each chapter.

Sigma Alpha Iota, National Music Fraternity, was founded June 12, 1903, and was chartered in the early part of 1904 by seven women music students in the University School of Music of the University of Michigan. There are now fifty-eight chapters.

The object of Sigma Alpha Iota is to form bodies of representative women who shall, by their influence and their musical interest, uphold the highest ideals of a musical education; to raise the standards of productive musical work among the women students of colleges and universities; to further the development of a stronger bond of musical interest and understanding between foreign countries and America, and to develop loyalty to the Alma Mater.

Sigma Omicron Chapter, a strong link in S. A. I.'s chain of service and high ideals, was installed November 25, 1925. The chapter has four patronesses: Mrs. Harry Shultz, Mrs. Fred L. Kerr, Mildred Gillespie, and Mrs. Bert Lewis.

Blackfriars

Blackfriars, national honorary dramatic fraternity, was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1913, by Roger Williams, at that time a member of the Public Speaking Department of the University, and later director of the 47 Workshop at Harvard University. The fraternity started with only a few workers and for a number of years maintained a policy of a small, exclusive membership. Later it broadened its policy to include more members of the dramatic department and the chapter at the University of Arkansas is now supplementing the work of the University Little Theatre.

The outstanding production of the 1930-'31 season was "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," presented in November. Directed by Russell Burnett, the cast played before a capacity audience. Fletcher Brewer as the drunkard, gave one of the most accurate and sterling performances of the year. Other members of the cast included Tom Millard, Newton Winburne, Victoria Cross, Margaret Critz, Flora Campbell, Ralph Bain, Henry Fancher, Jimmy Terry, and Lesteree George. The play was presented in the spirit and atmosphere of the nineteenth century with appropriate musical accompaniment.

In March Blackfriars entered the State Little Theatre Association tournament at Little Rock, presenting "Judge Lynch," and winning third place in a group of 15 plays. "Judge Lynch" was directed by Charles Steel, with Fletcher Brewer, Martha Warren, Fanchon Oliver, and Henry Fancher in the cast. Later presentation of the play was made in Fayetteville. Other one-act plays were presented during the season and plans have been made for the presentation of Hendrick Ibsen's "Doll's House."

A new feature of the year was the exchange of plays with other outstanding dramatic groups in the Southwest, Trinity University of Waxahachie, Texas, and Southern Methodist University of Dallas bringing plays to Fayetteville.

Newly elected officers for 1931-'32 are Charles Steel, president; Henry Fancher and Martha Warren, vice-presidents; Lesteree George, secretary; and Charlotte Walls, treasurer.

Phi Alpha Delta was founded in Chicago, Illinois, November 8, 1902. It was the outgrowth and re-organization of a fraternity of law students known as Lambda Epsilon, founded in 1897. Membership is limited to students of law at the various accredited law schools where chapters are located. Students belonging to general college fraternities are admitted. Members of the legal profession who have attained distinction, upon the approval of the national executive board, are eligible to honorary membership by special election and initiation through local chapters.

Names of the chapters are in honor of some celebrated lawyer or jurist. Garland chapter was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1919. It was named for Augustus H. Garland, the only man from Arkansas to be in a President's cabinet. He served as Attorney General in President Cleveland's administration.

Octagon, local honorary organization for outstanding senior women, was founded at the University of Arkansas in May, 1929, but did not make an official appearance on the campus until the following school year, when the members met, elected officers, and drew up a constitution.

The organization was begun under the leadership of Miss Martha Reid, Dean of Women, who has held up before the eyes of the group the prospect of Mortar Board, a national organization for outstanding women.

The name, Octagon, was chosen by the local group from the fact that there were eight members originally selected, and the group has determined to adhere to the practice of pledging only one from each of the seven sororities and Carnall Hall. The purpose of the organization is to develop and encourage in young women the qualities of service, leadership, and scholarship.

Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at New York University in 1904. Beta Zeta Chapter was established at the University of Arkansas November 1, 1928.

Beta Zeta is the outgrowth of a club of many years' standing on the Arkansas campus—"The Commerce Club." This club developed rapidly under the direction of Dean C. C. Fichtner, with the advent of the School of Business Administration, September, 1926.

Meetings are held twice each month. At these meetings talks are made by faculty and student members on topics pertinent to business.

Each year the fraternity sponsors a trip to some industrial center. Business students who make this trip find it to be very educational.

Pi Kappa, a woman's professional journalistic sorority, was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1917. Membership of the group is made up of women who are planning to take up the profession of journalism, and only those who have shown marked interest, originality, and ability along these lines, as well as having done consistent and creditable work on student publications, are recognized by the sorority.

The purpose of the organization is to promote the interests of the profession and to bring about a more consummate feeling of cooperation and understanding among its members.

Much constructive work has been done by the organization this year. It publishes a Pi Kappa edition of the Arkansas Traveler at the High School Press Association meet in the Spring, and combines with the Men's Press Club in sponsoring the meet.

Delta Omicron, local honorary home economics organization, is the outgrowth of several attempts at establishing such a sorority. It was organized at the University of Arkansas in December, 1929. The purpose of Delta Omicron is to increase interest in home economics, and to encourage good scholarship.

The members are chosen, not on scholarship alone, but on several other considerations in addition. They must be engaged in student activities of some sort, must be willing to cooperate with the other members of the Club, and must have an unquestionable character before they are considered by Delta Omicron.

Even though this organization is a young one, and the membership is necessarily limited, it is hoped that it will grow along with the Home Economics Department, and will furnish a goal toward which lower classmen will strive.

Swastika was founded at the University of Arkansas on February 25, 1931, for the purpose of promoting more friendly social relations between fraternity women. The lodge meets every Wednesday evening, and only on Wednesdays do the members wear the official insignia of the organization. The ritual was written by Anne Meek. The initiation ceremony is very impressive, there being no horse play nor paddle signing.

The organization intends to enter more into the formal social life of the University next year. It is hoped that it will be able to give a dance sometime during the second semester.

Meetings are held each month at which subjects of geological interest are discussed and original papers presented. The chief requirement for membership is an active interest in geology, the importance of which few students realize.

Xi Delta Psi is a dormitory organization, founded to promote good fellowship and further a friendly spirit between its members. The Club meets every Thursday night in the dormitory and discusses at length dormitory affairs and other University problems. Besides the regular meetings, a Dutch feed is held once a month. Each semester a date banquet is held by the members of the Club. New members are taken into the organization once each semester.

Discipline, both in the dormitory and in the University, is one of the fundamental principles of Xi Delta Psi. The organization strives to have its members maintain an exemplary mode of conduct for the benefit of the other inmates of the men's dormitories. It has a strict code of moral ethics, which are rigidly adhered to by the members. An odor of sanctity prevails at all meetings of the group.

The General Engineering Society is composed of all the members of that branch of the University. It is an organization instituted for the purpose of promoting the interest of the Engineering College and to bring about a closer relationship between the students of the various departments.

It originated as the Arkansas Chapter of the Collegiate Engineers, but the students, feeling that they could work to a greater advantage, withdrew the chapter to organize the present society.

The organization works to the advantage of its members and with an untiring effort to advertise the work of engineers throughout this State and contiguous states. Each year it stages the annual festivities of "Engineer's Day," which is held on the Friday nearest March 17, in honor of Saint Patrick, patron saint of all engineers. On this day at a special convocation the members of the Senior Class are knighted. To become Saint Patrick is the highest honor that the Society can bestow upon any student in the College of Engineering. This year Kermit Potts was awarded this signal honor.

Agri Day Association was organized in 1917, and since that time there has been an annual celebration sponsored by agricultural students. For the first few years Agri Day was given in the form of a carnival or fair, featuring exhibits of the various departments, a parade, and the Agri Ball. The celebration was held in the fall of each year until after the World War, when the enrollment increased and new features were added to the events of the Day.

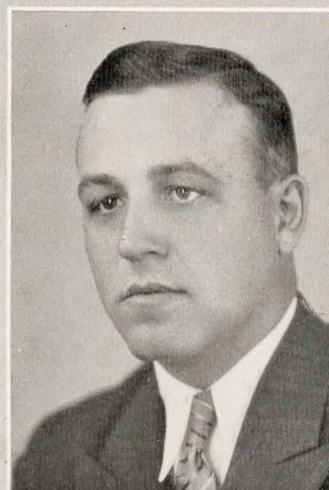

Features of the Day now include a parade, the departmental exhibits, the Agri Show, staged in some local theatre, and the annual Farmer Costume Dance, all of which involve considerable capital and the cooperative efforts on the part of all agricultural students.

The Women's Athletic Association was organized in 1923 for the purpose of developing a high physical efficiency among the students of the University. Every regularly registered woman student of the University of Arkansas who pays her dues is granted privileges of active membership in the organization. To retain these she must earn fifty points during the first semester of membership, and fifty points each succeeding year. Any girl receiving 300 points for participation in sports is awarded the University of Arkansas emblem. For 500 points she is eligible for a winged-foot W. A. A. pin. For 1,000 points she is recommended to the Athletic Board to receive an "A." Tournaments in the various sports are held each year, and trophies and medals are given to winning teams and individuals.

W. A. A. affiliates with two national athletic associations of women which are the Athletic Conference of American College Women and the National Amateur Athletic Federation of America.

The Women's League was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1926 by the women students of the institution with the purpose of bringing about a closer unity and a more concerted organization among the women students. The organization became active immediately and has seen a steady growth.

The League attempts to promote good fellowship and cooperation among the women students and to uphold the highest standards of honor, scholarship, and loyalty to the University. Women who would otherwise remain comparative strangers due to the clannishness of campus social groups, are brought into close contact.

The organization has been active this year in upholding its standards. At the beginning of the fall semester an informal get-together banquet was given for all University women students. In the spring the organization gave a banquet honoring all freshmen girls who made a three point or above, Dr. Harrison Hale being the speaker.

Other colleges and universities adopted the idea of a banded body of women and have founded similar organizations to promote cooperation among women students. We feel a little pride in the fact that Arkansas was a pioneer in this field.

Rootin' Rubes was organized in 1925 for the purpose of fostering all University activities and to encourage college spirit and loyalty among the students. It was organized as a little sister club to the A. B. C.'s. Its membership is composed of representatives of all University women, three of its members being chosen from each sorority, and five from Carnall Hall.

The Rootin' Rubes, together with the Arkansas Booster Club, have founded a pep squad composed of five members from each campus group. It is hoped that this auxiliary will ameliorate cheering conditions at the University.

The club also functions socially. At various times during the year, the members serve tea at the Y. W. C. A. room in the University. All three-letter athletes are presented blankets by the organization.

The Poetry Club is an organization composed of students interested in writing and studying poetry. It meets once every two weeks to read and discuss verse. Membership is based on the merit of poetry submitted to the Club.

The Club was organized in 1926, largely through the efforts of Mr. Laurence F. Hawkins, an instructor in English at the University, and Mrs. Rosa Zagnoni Marinoni, a poetess of national recognition, who lives in Fayetteville. Mrs. Marinoni has continued to be inspiring genius of the Club since the departure of Mr. Hawkins.

Tri Eta was established as a dormitory fraternity in 1903. For the intermitting twenty-seven years it has worked with an aim of fostering a feeling of brotherhood among the residents of the dormitories and in promoting the welfare of all inmates.

Social activities of the Club consist of dances, hikes, parties of various sorts. Initiations are held each semester, and the sacredness of the order is duly impressed upon the neophytes. To be qualified to join this club, a person must live in the dormitories at least three months consecutively.

With a cooperative plan of work, the A. B. C. and the Rootin' Rubes, the girls' pep organization, endeavor to look after the cheering at the football and basketball games. This year yells were led by Tom Millard, Bob Hunt, Drew Lander, with the assistance of Fanchon Sims and L'Louise Dial.

The A. B. C. is sponsored by W. S. Gregson, who holds the perpetual job of treasurer of the organization. It is Mr. Gregson's active interest in the past years that has tended to make A. B. C. as powerful and active as it today is.

The University of Arkansas 4-H Club was founded at the University in December, 1929. The membership of the Club is made up of men and women who have completed one or more years of 4-H Club work before coming to the University. Most of these people plan to occupy themselves in extension work. The Club was organized with the purpose of developing the leadership qualities of each member, of increasing the knowledge of the members of state and national problems in club work, of inducing more 4-H Club members to come to college, and in general to prepare members to become more efficient workers in the extension field.

The Math Club was founded at the University of Arkansas on February 11, 1919, by a group of students under the direction of Dr. W. L. Miser. Since that time it has served as a laboratory group to cogitate over problems of higher mathematics that cannot be discussed in the classroom.

Among some of the charter members of the Club who are connected with the University are A. M. Harding, Stits Hays, Davis P. Richardson. E. E. Stevenson, president of the Club in 1922, was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship.

The Math Club has a prerequisite of 4.00 average in mathematics for membership. The Club has served its purpose well, for it has not only brought those together who are interested in mathematics, but has served to create a tense interest in that field which is the foundation of all professional work.

The Home Economics Club is one of the largest student organizations on the campus, with membership open to all girls enrolled in the Home Economics department. This club is affiliated with the State and American Home Economics associations, the only professional organizations dealing solely with home economics problems.

The main purposes of the Club are to encourage higher standards and to create greater interest in home economics work, and to promote friendship and social life among its members. Monthly meetings are held. These are semi-social, some of them entirely so.

Activities of the Club include its contribution to the Arkansas Home Economics Association Scholarship Fund, its cooperation with the Annual High School Meet, and the offering of its fullest support to the annual Agri Day. The club contributes to the State Student Loan Fund, sponsored by the Daughters of Demeter.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a national organization, has as members professional engineers and a large number of students. Any student who is actively interested in electrical engineering is eligible for membership.

The purpose of the national organization is to promote the interests of the profession. It plays an important part in establishing and maintaining professional standards as well as the industrial standards with which it is concerned. Through its student branches it helps the student engineer while in school and helps him become established as a professional engineer after graduation.

The student branch at the University of Arkansas gives the student engineer an opportunity to associate with others who are interested in this branch of engineering. Regular meetings are held in which members present papers and discuss the various problems confronting the electrical engineer.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a national organization composed of practicing engineers. The National Society has student branches in all leading Engineering Colleges for students who are interested in mechanical engineering.

The National Society celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last year and the feature program of the year for the student branch was one in honor of the birthday of A. S. M. E.

Members of the local chapter carry on research work, present papers, and show pictures on the screen which are of engineering interest. This year the group had an actual locomotive on display during Engineers' Day.

The Y. M. C. A. promotes Christian work upon the campus. A man's life is not a success until he makes a success with his Creator. He may rise to worldly fame, be honored in the high courts and by the nation, but, after all, what does this amount to if he is not right at heart? He lives today and dies tomorrow; the poorest man in potter's field has lived a most successful life if he makes the Kingdom.

The Y. M. C. A. at the University of Arkansas is organized for the same purpose as the national organization, and for the purpose of making the student feel at home. The ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise has been the motive of W. S. Gregson, General Secretary of the organization, to whose untiring efforts the success of Y. M. C. A. at the University is due. During his eight years upon the campus he has given his whole life and soul to his work.

Deutscher Verein

The present German Club represents a revival of the old Deutscher Verein which flourished before the war. The old Club was one of the most active organizations on the campus at that time, having the largest membership of any society in school. Members of the Club carried on various activities: Lectures in German, short talks in the unknown tongue, German songs, and especially, German plays to which the general public was invited.

At the onset of the World War in 1917-'18, interest in German waned, and the Club passed from existence until 1929, when Professors Lussky and Genschmer came to the conclusion that a great enough revival of interest in German had been demonstrated to warrant the reorganization of the Club. Consequently the present Deutscher Verein came into existence and made its appearance upon the campus as an organization with a membership numbering some forty students.

The Club has for its purpose the giving of an opportunity of hearing German spoken to those students of the University desirous of obtaining a better knowledge of the language. All students who successfully complete the freshman year of German are freely admitted to membership, as well as those in the freshman classes who have made a grade of "B" or better in the first semester of German.

Since its inception the Club has been extremely active. The monthly programs, which are patterned after those of the ante-bellum society, have been interestingly presented and well attended, both by faculty members and townspeople, as well as by students.

The Young Women's Christian Association works with unmitigated effort to promote Christian work at the University. This year it has worked as a large fellowship, rather than as a small executive board, and the favorable effects of its work may be seen on the campus. Under the leadership of Mrs. Doris Drake Leflar, student secretary, it has progressed this year in an unusual manner and has become more efficient and useful to the young women of the institution.

Every woman student registered in the University is at will a member of the Y. W. C. A. and is invited to take an active part in all work at any time. Among its duties is that of making the freshmen feel at home during the trying months after they first arrive at the University. It aids in every way to help them get acquainted and feel a welcome in the institution.

The task of the organization is a great one. It encounters many problems among the students that it tries to interpret and understand. It endeavors to mould friendship that will last for years and it is the most influential Christian organization in the institution.

The Menorah is a society open for all students. Its purpose is the study of Jewish thought and literary creations, which will enable the student to become able to adjust himself more easily to the complex situations he will have to face in later life. The Menorah believes in free and open-minded study and discussion, because only through these mediums can students arrive at intelligent and unbiased opinions.

The society, under the able leadership of its president, Leo Schwartz, had a most prosperous year. Its membership has increased many fold over that of preceding years and correspondence has been carried on with many of the leading chapters of the country. There is no doubt that the society is a firmly established fixture on the University campus.

FOREWORD

PEARSON
The Editor

Now, dear students, you are going to see and read many things in this section that some of you are not going to appreciate very well. And I really don't know what you are going to do about it, except grin and take it; that's the general custom, I believe.

Unless you all subsequently labor under the misapprehension that I have included you here because I am vindictive, and have against you some special grudge, let me state here and now that I have striven only to make you see yourself as others see you. I have endeavored to be just and impartial, and expose everything that the censors would allow me to, whether on friend or foe.

If you were so unfortunate as to have been left out of the Hog Wallow, remember, we have not tried to slight you. It was due either to your unimportance, or to a lack of public interest your actions have. And in either case, you are to be commended.

I have attempted to give a truthful account of the action of some of our famous and infamous fellow-students, and have not tried to seize upon virtuous persons and by a typical act of Pearsonian metamorphosis transmogrify them into what they are herein depicted. But they will ignore this in the height of their rage, and all I will hear for several months will be tirades, diatribes, obloquy, virtuperation, catarates, scythrophys, and other lamentable and wretched imprecations, whether the yelping of Kappa Sigmas, the anathemas of Sig Alphas, the grumbling of K. A.'s, the howling of my brothers, the whining of Sigma Chis, the whimpering of Sigma Nus, the snarling of S. P. E.'s, the coniating of Lambda Chis, the guarring of Theta Kappa Nus, the pioling of Alpha Lambda Taus, the cabbalistic cackling of the Delta Tau Sigmas and Phi Epsilons, the guerieting of Chi Omegas, the wailing of Pi Phis, the cigling of Zetas, the chattering of Tri Delts, the moiling of Phi Mus, the clamoring of Kappas, and the hysterical cachinations of Delta Gammas.

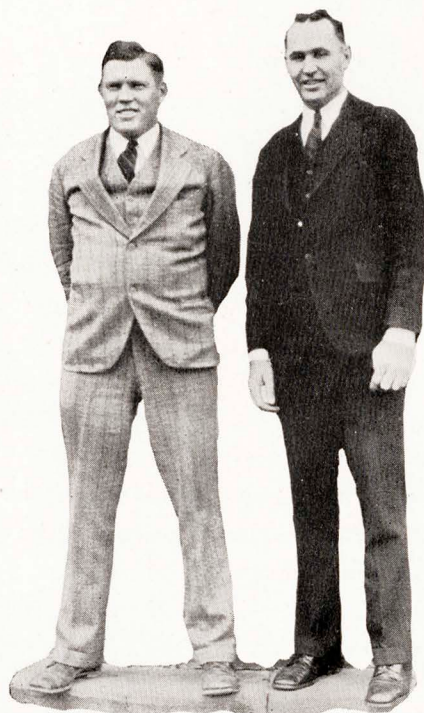

So I am thankful that I am utterly disregardful of what the campus thinks of me, for, if words or looks could kill, I would have been a stately corpse long ago, and if I let the attitude or denunciations of my enemies prey upon my mind years hence, I would have been confined to some mad-house. And if I ever do become consigned to some asylum for those mentally unbalanced, I will not be constrained to pass through some process of Orientation, as I have been around the Zeta house sufficiently in the last three years to become fully cognisant of all the idiosyncracies of those who have bats in the belfry.

MOODY P. PEARSON.

DEDICATION

It was only after long and careful consideration, profound meditation, prodigious research, assiduous study, deep contemplation, sedulous questioning and deep delving into the divinations of pyromancy, aeromancy, hydromancy, lecanomancy, coscinomancy, astragalomancy, tiromancy, giromancy, sternomancy, libonomancy, gastromancy, capnomancy, axinomancy, caphelomancy, tephramancy, botanomancy, sicomancy, ichthyomancy, anthropolomancy, sibylline stitchomancy, anomatomancy, and various and divers other methods of prognostication that we finally decided upon the persons most fitted to have this noble section dedicated to them. And we believe that our choice has been a happy and most propitious one, for we have not alone pleased the hearts of the members of the Razorback staff, but also those of a band of loving fellows, multitudinous in number, who have not been reticent in expressing their felicitations that two men so worthy of such a distinctive honor have at last been so signally recognized.

It was quite a perplexing problem to decide whether to put these two in the rear or front of the book, but as they have gained their greatest fame as being a couple of "rears," we think they have now become front-page stuff.

Hope you like it.

Horses' Assembly

Well, folks, it looks as though I've got quite a number of noble stallions, geldings, and mares in the corral on the opposite page, and that sure does old Brother Pearson a world of good. Unfortunately, I have been obliged to leave out the physiognomies of two of the most important members of the team, but I just couldn't bring myself around to destroying the pulchritude and artistic symmetry of this section by imposing the features of these two gargoyles upon the student body at large.

His Majesty, Emperor Bush, has been neglected long enough, and it seems high time that he is given his just dues. He has rendered himself obnoxious to the University for quite a while now, and it seems that it is only a reiteration of poetic justice to award him the imperial purple. During the interregnum, he has certainly made himself more than a pretender to the crown, by his various political tergiversations, his courting of a Tri Delta, and by his attitude in general around the campus.

The rest of the team is sufficiently well known to pass by without comment here.

Now, if you didn't make the team, think nothing of it. Maybe you pulled your stuff in a more or less private place. If the eleven horses opposite suit the student body, I must heartily concur, and commend the common herd on their intelligence.

Now, you H. A.'s, don't you feel badly about this unexpected honor, because it is a sure sign that you are not so insignificant that the people do not know you. I am speaking from experience, as you know I was on one there one year, and got a good strong, honorable mention the next. And you all know why I am not on there this year. That is the tragedy—with all my ambitions, too!

The H. A. Team is my only claim for glory.

—Amen.

PI K. A.

DEAN MORLEY: Life is full of mistakes. The biggest mistake Pi K. A. ever made was when Morley was pledged. Absolutely worthless and good for nothing. An embryo lawyer who needs aborting.

THETA KAPPA NU

BOB HUNT: Has tried everything and succeeded in nothing. Acts like a good court fool while leading yells, looks like a good yell leader while politicking. Even Cowboy Kyle is disgusted with him.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

BULL CUNNING: Hirsute, uncouth, lazy, lousy, low-life, puerile, senile, worthless nonentity who thinks that Chi Omega is a sorority.

KAPPA SIGMA

SAM SOUTHALL: A ham magician who tricked a so-called fraternity into pledging him. Runs around with a Jew-faced fraternity brother who is as bad as he is. They will know the names of half the men in the chapter by the end of the year.

KAPPA ALPHA

EARL DARR: Cotton-headed jelly-bean from Jonesboro who throws the brotherhood badge on the first filly who will take it, and he now spends most of the time at the Pi Phi house. Dumb, hard-headed, arrogant, conceited and irascible, and thinks that his girl is in love with him.

SIGMA NU

JOE BIDDLE: A crummy football player and boxer from Pulaski county who pledged Sigma Nu to take advantage of their training table, and was ultimately forced to take a job slinging hash at the Pi Phi house to keep from starving to death. No wonder the Pi Phis are all reducing, with such an elephantine eater getting first crack at the victuals.

S. P. E.

"BALD KNOB" PRESLEY: A city-slicking politician who lined up with the Ogan-Potts combine and got his man Murphy beaten by a substantial majority. Dumb as James Turner Smith, ugly as Soc Sadler, blind as Jew Wiseman, old as Stits Hays, and conceited as Leon Catlett.

S. A. E.

"JIGGER" SMITH: Sigma Alpha Epsilon's lone claim to being a social fraternity. The fraternity should better go in for activities. Hung the fraternity badge on one of the lodge's little sisters and has been regretting it ever since; but she's too big for him to take it away from her.

SIGMA CHI

A. L. T.

HIRAM CROSS: Dirty, ugly, low-minded, hypocritical mongrel who went to church on Mother's Day. A typical Alpha Lambda Tau—all he thinks about is grape-jack, Diesel engines, and the cuisine of Theta.

DELTA TAU SIGMA

MAURICE GERSHMAN: An epitome of all Delta Tau Sigmas — ignorant, uncultured, insinuating, pestiferous, continually nosing into other people's business, egotistical, a baggart of the worst type, who, for the good of Arkansas, had better stayed in New York.

PHI EPSILON

HERBERT MARKHEIM: Oi, gevalt! Herbie founded himself a fraternity. Oi, oi, he thinks that some day he will be a Zeta Beta Tau. He will about a soon become a Chi Omega.

Political Resume of the Year

It was a great year for politics at the U. of A., at least for those who won the elections. But the character of the newly elected officers shows a degeneracy of the political perspicacity of the student body. When a person like "Jew" Wiseman can become President of the Student Body, or a nonentity like Ray Forrester can obtain the Editorship of the Razorback, we all ask, "What is our Alma Mater coming to next?" And what our beloved school paper will amount to next year with Busick and Wade in charge we can only pessimistically surmise.

Miss Clarrene Tribble of the Tribble tripping trio wonders how the Pi Phis are going to get along without her next year. (Miss Tribble has gained recent fame by her political maneuvers in behalf of Mrs. Martha Parnell Warren, who was a candidate for Vice-President of the Student Body. It is whispered that old Trib maneuvered Martha out of the running).

Old "Bald Knob" Presley is another deep-thinking politician. He broke loose from the dear old machine to line up his boys behind the great Potts. The result was that his boy Murphy was snowed under by Bruce Kendall, lanky basketball player from Berryville. Bald Knob is still trying to figure it all out on his slide rule. Better luck next time, T. E.

Our old friend, Treva Ogan, the gypsy lass from Cross county, doesn't know yet how near she escaped getting beat. If you want the dope, Treva, call on me during office hours.

“The Two Graifers”

A Story
by

AN INTERESTED BYSTANDER

“SLIPPERY JIM”

CHAPTER I

You all know Slippery Jim Kerby and Two Face Wood and his man, Friday Catlett.

Well, the first part of this story has to do with old Jim. Jim goes up to Porter Grace and says, “Bull, if you will give me Chairman of the Social Committee, I won’t oppose you for President of the Student Hog-Callers. “O. K., Slippery, old pal,” says Bull.

Now, here is where we change Slippery’s moniker to “Trusting Slippery Jim Kerby,” because he really believed he was the only man in school slipping prongs into the fellow hog-callers, little suspecting that at that very moment Bull Grace and little “Runt” Douglas were celebrating their slickest pronging in years—at least they had changed the name of “Slippery Jim” to Trusting Jim.

CHAPTER II

The following year, Bull says, “Slippery, old pronger, I have been to see Dean Ripley and he says you ain’t the boy you used to be and he won’t let you serve——”

CHAPTER III

BANG! !!!

(Explosion of Slippery Jim with vengeance in his heart).

CHAPTER IV

“Trusting Jim” says to “Two-Face” Wood, “Let’s bust up that machine and you and I go in and get some of that pie.” “O. K., Trusty.” (Everybody calls him “Trusy” now.) So “Two-Face” (gosh, that’s a smart guy) come to wee Moody Pearson and says, “Peewee, if you will be my campaign manager I will give you Chairman of the Social Committee if I am elected President of the Associated Hog-Callers.” “O. K., ‘Two-Face’ old buddy,” says little Peewee, and like a fool believes him.

Now, dear readers, we must digress a moment. Little Peewee immediately becomes ambitious when he hears about a Student Senate trip to California and says, “Two-Face, you line up your ‘Southern Blanks’ and I will line up my 'Beer Guzzlers' (at least that's what Dean Jones calls them) and we two will make the trip." "O. K., Peewee," says Two Face. Little Peewee had no more than left the room when Runt Douglas came in and said, "Two-Face, if you vote your men for me, I will do the same for you, and we will make the California trip, and I won't run against you for President of the Associated Hog-Callers." They did. (Gosh, wasn't Two Face smart).

Well, second semester came on and, along with it came Friday Catlett, who says along with Trusting Jim (everybody calls him that now), "Two Face, get Peewee out and let's get all the pie." They did. (Gosh, ain't Two Face a genius).

CHAPTER V

Now you can imagine how little iddy biddy Peewee felt, so its no wonder that Paul X. Williams looks up the grade list and finds out that Two Face Wood, after six years of college, was only a second semester sophomore with only a "D" average. And somehow or other Dean Ripley couldn't permit dear old Two Face to run. (Gosh, ain't Two Face smart!).

CHAPTER VI

Little Runt and good old Bull were again in charge of the Associated Hog-Callers.

CHAPTER VII

It is rumored that little Peewee, when he was in the privacy of his boudoir, gave out a very conservative "ha, ha, ha, he, he, he," up his sleeve.

CHAPTER VIII

They say Two Face was blackballed by acclamation in Blue Key.

CHAPTER IX

"Gosh, ain't Two Face smart."

(FROM ARKANSAS TRAVELER)

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Sigma Nu house Tuesday night.

That eminent oil man, Mr. Warren G. Furry, has announced his engagement to Miss Virginia Blomeyer, of Blytheville, Arkansas.

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Delta Gamma house Monday morning.

Mr. Jack Dale kindly allowed Brother Oscar Snow to use his apartment on the night of May 8, for some unknown reason.

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Tincup Tuesday evening.

Miss Jane Louise Richardson has announced that she is no longer affiliated with Chi Omega sorority. It seems that Miss Richardson was angered because Nux Ford wouldn't allow Miss Richardson's pictures to be submitted in the Beauty Contest. Miss Richardson claims that if she entered she would have placed, as she is a very close personal friend of Frank Newell.

Quincey Alexander went out like a light on the third floor of the Pi Phi house at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday morning.

Miss Mildred Sexson was hostess to a charming party honoring the birthday of Stits Hays. Among those present were Verla Menard, Joe Walker, Jack Robison, Gimp Davidson, Gussie Paschal, Bull Erwin, Henry Fancher, Clarrene Tribble, and Jake Carr. There were 49 candles on the cake.

Quincey Alexander passed out at Stits Hays' birthday party Wednesday evening.

Alpha Kappa Psi has again failed to announce the pledging of Everett Liner of Fort Smith, Ark.

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Zeta kitchen.

Tharon Crigler has been released as staff announcer from KUOA. Dr. Harding, in commenting on Mr. Crigler's dismissal, stated that he hired the Agri as an announcer, and not as a clown and soprano singer.

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Sigma Alpha Epsilon basement Friday morning.

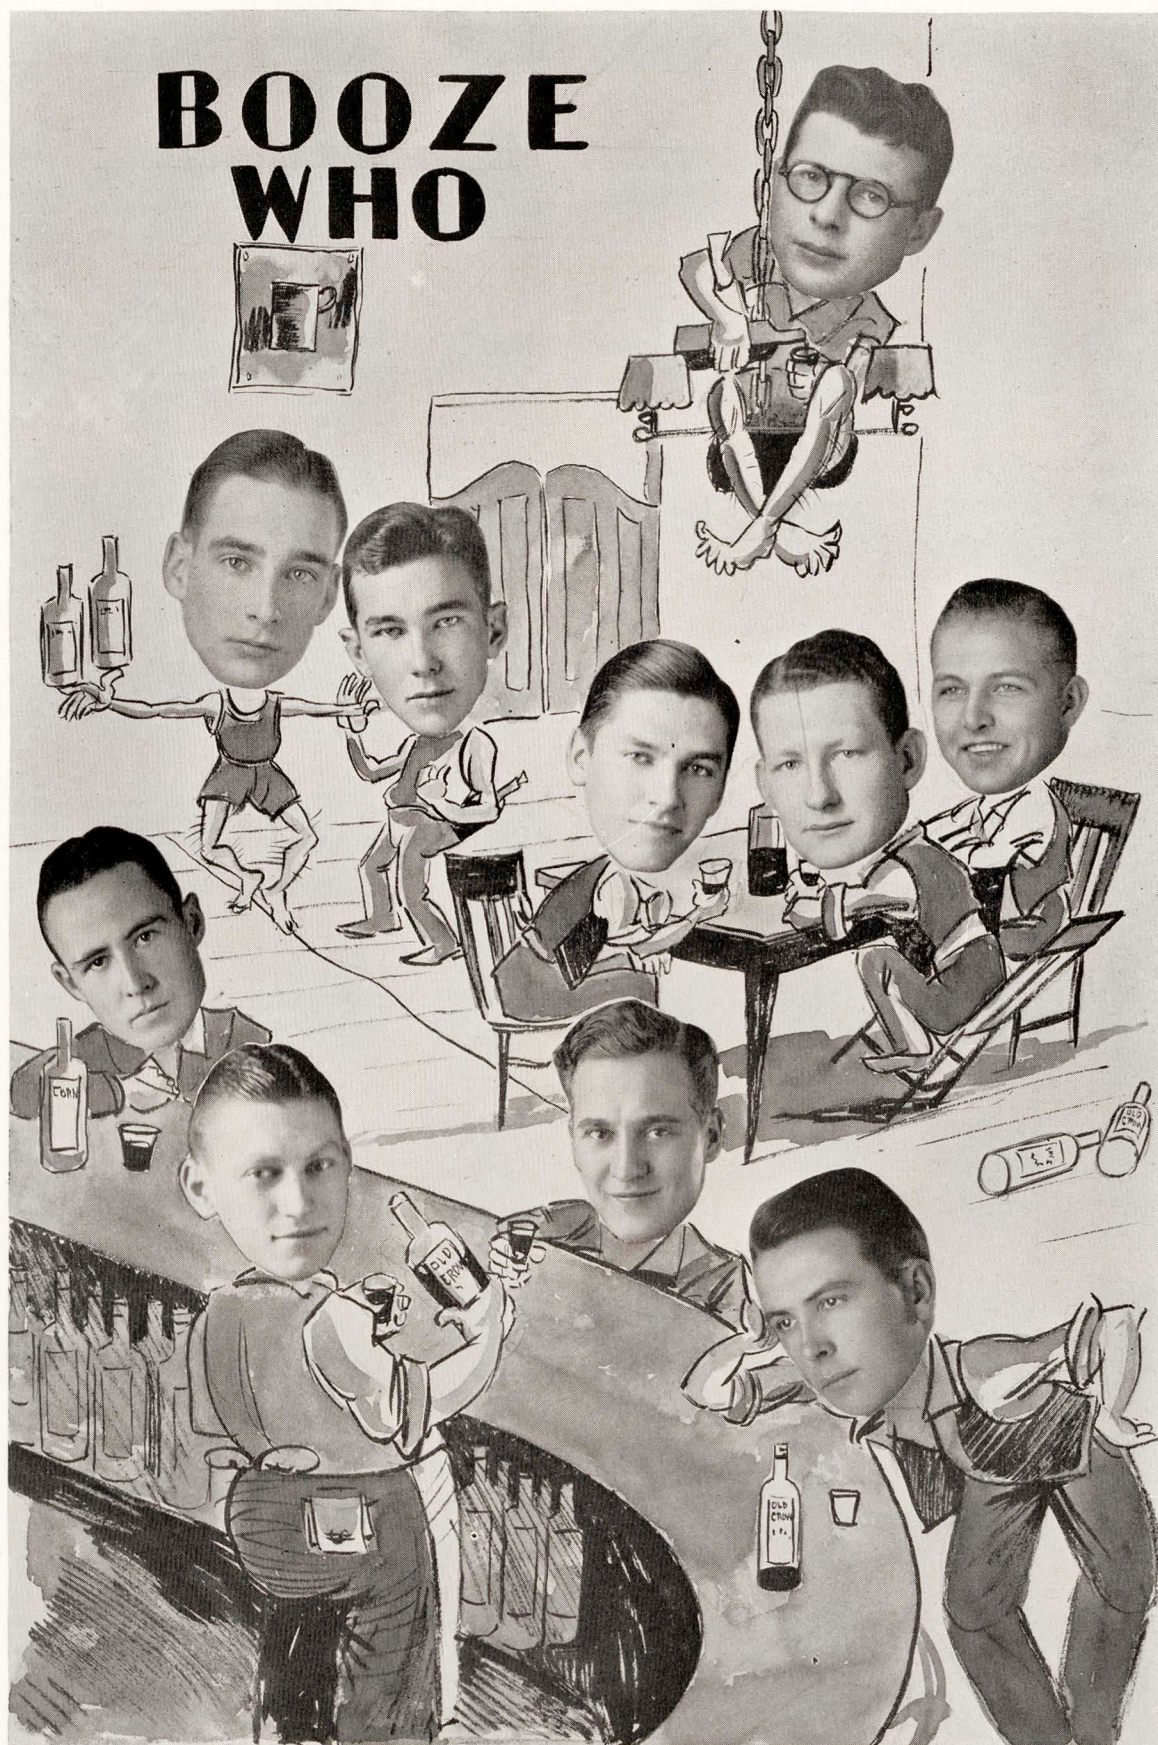

Warren G. Furry, the second Harry Sinclair, has announced his betrothal to Miss Martha Ann Moore, a home town girl.

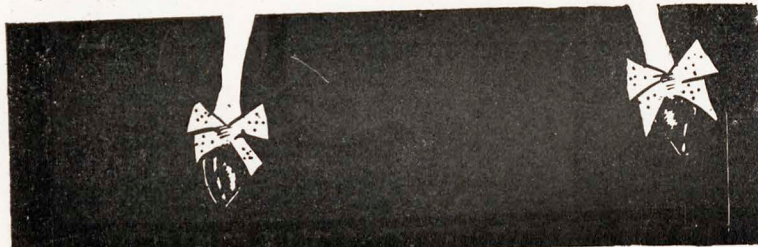

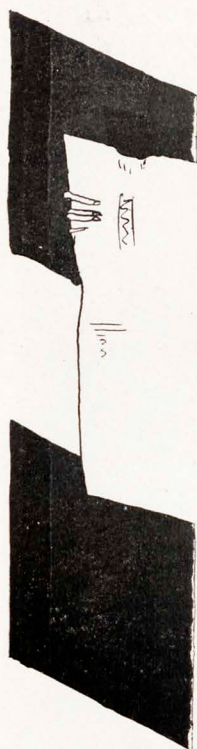

Quincey Alexander passed out in the Majestic Cafe Friday evening.

Alpha Lambda Tau announces the rushing, pledging, initiation and suspension of Kermit Potts of Larkspur.

Quincey Alexander was fined $.25 and indefinitely suspended for drinking half a glass of home brew in the Pi K. A. house Saturday morning.

It is rumored that Miss LaVerne Brownfield has desisted from writing impassioned love notes to Billie Allen and leaving them around in the library to eventually land in the hands of the Hog Wallow editor. We just don't quite understand what means she used to get that letter back from the editor. Bribery, probably.

Moody Pearson, official confidence agent for the High Moguls of Z. T. A., has not been able to keep up with the fast-steppin' Miss Virginia Blomeyer lately, with a result that Miss Blomeyer has not been censored by the initiates for nearly two weeks.

The flowers are kissed by the butterfly,

Miss Margaret Bowman has lately purchased a new green spring coat. The motivation for the green color, Miss Bowman states, is that it won't show grass stains.

Misses Nell Braselton and Frances Rogers became ill in Helen Maxwell's bed not long ago.

Phi Mu announces the pledging of Marian Ford, of Fort Smith.

Miss Martha Ann Moore, accompanied by Mr. J. B. Wiseman, recently gave the Chi Omega amphitheatre a nocturnal inspection.

DEGENERACY

"No single thing abides, but all things flow,
Fragment to fragment clings, and all things grow,
Until we know and name them; by degrees
They melt, and are no more the things we know."

And what old Lucretius said two thousand years ago will still apply now. As an example, look what dear old Theta Nu Epsilon Society of 1870, Inc., has degenerated to:

Swastika Club

It is rumored that the weaker sex have started a new organization, a sort of women's T. N. E., being inspired by the champion lady-killer of the campus, Milan Creighton, who instructed Miss Anne Meek how to write the ritual. His pious assistant, James Wiseman, consented to supply the much needed atmosphere of religion.

At first, it was intended to limit the membership to those of the feminine gender, but after the first political venture, that of running Sister Martha Warren for Vice-President of the Associated Students against the Sigma Nu-Chi Omega clique on one hand, the Pi K. A.-Tri Delt amalgamation on the other, resulted in failure, the Brains of the organization resolved to admit a few of the select men on the campus into the mysterious bonds of sisterhood. Thus, they have inveigled some of the school's most ardent Y. M. C. A. workers into their ranks, to-wit:

"YELLOW DOG" JOHNSON
"WHATAMAN" MORLEY
"FRUIT JAR" STOUT
"DOG FACE" RED

"BIG BULL" ROSE
"SILENT JOE" KERBY
"TWO FACE" WOOD
"JAKE" WADDY

Shifty Jack Dale has been appointed as trainer, who is responsible for the boys staying in shape. He is being assisted by "Bull" Cunning, who, however, is more of a liability than an asset.

Elsie Dewitt has been selected as rush captain, and has made late dates with the following:

"HARD PAN" STEVENSON
"CONSCIENCE STRICKEN" POTTS
JOHN MACK SMITH

GULLY DAVIS
FRED LEE
BILL RUCKMAN

Women on the rush list include Mildred Sexson; Verla Menard; Sugar Young; Violin, the Pi Phi cook; and Milly Dowell.

Shifty Jack Dale, weight 165, won the heavyweight championship of the University by a technical knockout of Wild Jim Ad-derson, 195, of Elm Springs, Ark., according to the Jonesboro A. and M. weekly.

P. S. Luigi Passarelli is becoming inefficient in his dotage; he was not on hand to referee a single one of the above mentioned pugilistic affairs.

And the great Newell concludes his diatribe against the evils of drink with the pedantic plea, to avoid imbibing "alcohol, that obnoxious liquid, what thickens the blood, heatens the animal spirits, and ob-fuscates the cerebrum with frenetical and lymphatic idols which cloud the quintessential light of the pure reason."

It would be a shame to include here some slight notice of Miss Daphne Lowell Dailey, journalist and politician. Miss Dailey, after spending two years of reticence and morbidness at the University of Arkansas, blossoms forth with a political smile that made her appear that she had been hit in the head with a sword. But grinning at everyone and writing weekly feature stories on the long-suffering Spoofer's Stone won't get anyone elected Editor of the Traveler, Miss Dailey found out.

"Hooray! Whoop! Hibby's married," shouted Bruce Kendall when the nuptials of Miss Robinson and Mr. Oglesby were announced. It seems that Miss Robinson was trying mightily to get Bruce roped in, and Bruce was having a hard time evading the tentacles of the octopus.

Why the Osage Tribe is due two boxes of candy

Our Own Poet's Corner

i

There came a young (?) Chio named Baker,
And at once all the boys tried to make her,
Till our old friend, Joe Knott,
Pinned her right on the spot,
And the other boys now have forsake her.

ii

A certain fat Phi named Milly,
Whose conduct is painfully silly,
Has a boy friend named Paul,
Who has no sense at all,
But thinks that his women's a dilly.

iii

A stalwart Nebraskan called Creighton,
Whose body is built like a Phaeton,
Has now got to swimmin'
The heads of some women;
When he gets them drunk, they think they're ratin'.

iv

An ex-Notre Dame star named Gimp,
To Arkansas came in a blimp.
There he pledged Pi K. A.
So a year from today
He will probably work as a imp.

v

A hot politician was Brown,
He courted all Chios in town;
But they all went for Ray,
Which filled Clyde with dismay;
And for Davies, R. Watt turned him down.

vi

They call Marian Ford a Delilah;
But she has no more brains than a spidah;
She once was the rage,
Till she got on in age,
And now leaves a hangover, like cidah.

vii

I know a Sig Alph named Frank Newell,
Whose actions denote him a fool.
He condemns prohibition
(With severe vomitition);
And they sober him up in a pool.

viii

A cracked Delt Gamma named Flamm,
Who wasn't getting 'long worth a damn,
Took young Eugene Moore's pin,
Though 'twas made out of tin;
She was better off then than she now am.

ix

A Pi Beta Phi yclept Street
Is quite popular, winsome, and sweet;
Till she's pinned by Dick Berry,
Who is ugly and hairy;
And her friends now all give her the geet.

x

A blonde, grinning Theta named Meek
Who, although she was but a stray Greek,
Thought she'd tear up the campus
Like a bull from the pampas;
But the boys here all thought her a freak.

xi

A young dog-faced boxer named Red,
Let Miss Martha Moore go to his head;
But Forrester won out
In a girl-grabbing bout,
And socially, Dog Face is dead.

xii

I see where that silly Bob Hunt
Has once again come to the front.
I think he's a hazy,
Dim-witted, quite lazy,
Self-centered, thick-skulled little runt.

We Wonder

1. Why Dean Morley never goes to the Chi Omega house any more?
2. Why Helen Maxwell, who had no connection with the Hog Wallow this year, is so sedulous in keeping track of and disseminating all the scandal on the Chi Omegas?
3. If the good lodge Delta Delta Delta will be disappointed when they see that the entire Hog Wallow was not devoted to them, as Hen Warten declared in January?
4. If Olive Baker, the perpetual pledge, will ever get initiated into anything, even Y. W. C. A.?
5. Why the local chapter of Swastika hasn't lilies and cherries on its members' pins?
6. Why Virginia Hammond, ever-grinning Pi Phi from Jefferson county, declined several pressing invitations from Young Wiseman for very late dates?
7. Ditto Milly Powell?
8. If Ann Meek, grand A. B. E. of Swastika, was really the victim of a peeping tom?
9. Why Lodene Fuller, Oriental looking Pi Phi, didn't pledge Kappa, which has all the other foreign appearing women in school?
10. If Jim Porter thinks Verla Monard is in love with him, or with his car?

Uncle Willie Putman, the good efficient cadaver procurer from Fort Smith, and head manager of intramurals upon this fair campus, is sure having a hard time in his love affairs. At first Uncle Willie falls for the wiles of Anne Meek, and after she has thrown him down for Jack Logan's car he becomes enamored over Miss Jean Flaherty, the flaming Texas beauty. But about that time Dick Sharp cuts Creighton off with Margaret Bowman, and the Nebraskan, finding himself without an inamorata, proceeds to ensnare Miss Flaherty. It appears that the only place Willie has any success in love is a home.

Things You Never Knew Till Now

By WILLIE ERP

That Margaret Livingston sometimes uses catsup in lieu of rouge.

That Milon Creighton gave an open house in his new apartment on Buchanan Street. Several Zetas were in attendance. J. C. Tarver was a committee of one in charge of entertainment. "Bull" Cuning and Jew Wiseman accompanied the visitors back to their house. Mother Johnson poured.

That several fiery crosses were burnt in the Chi Omega yard during the course of the year by Jim Porter and Jake Schoonover.

That Fred Lee, commonly known as "Eagle Beak," is deady in love with Olive Baker, the home town girl.

That the Delta Gammas, since their installation, have been trying to learn how to drink like sorority women.

That the Hog Wallow editor couldn't use the results of the general ballot for the equine team because he made it himself.

That Jeanette Darr, the girl Dave Abington has pinned, wasn't among those present at the big reception given in Dave's apartment the week-end of May 9.

That the Phi Mus have more callers after midnight than they do before.

That the only reason Mollie Cross didn't make the H. A. team this year is because we couldn't find a picture of her.

That W. G. Furry has announced his forthcoming marriage to Miss Betty Tolson, the sponsor of the Regiment.

That Kappa Alpha is an Order, and not something to eat, or a noun denoting a hangover.

That when the Kappa Sigma house was torn down, three pledges were discovered that nobody in the chapter knew.

That Helen May Maxwell, the feline Pi Phi, has a mother who thinks that Helen is the sweetest girl in the world.

That Jewell Kinard really is a good girl, even if she does date Earl Darr.

That Milly Powell can do other things well besides playing the piano. (Verified by A. P. Cooper).

That Marian Ford is still in love with Ernest Crenshaw, and transfers his pin from her dress to her pajamas every night before retiring.

That Slippery Jim Silent Joe K. Polk Kerby has been attending the University for five years and has never received any money from home.

That the Tri Delta received contradictory letters in regard to a rushee, Miss Rita Fay Livingston.

The University Riding Team

WILLIE MITCHELL

DREW LANDER

Every year brings some new inane novelty to the University of Arkansas, and the spring of 1931 was no exception. Will Mitchell, deep-thinking scholar from Princeton, instigated the latest graft when he bought about half a dozen old plugs and stabled them at Camp Markheim. After a whirlwind advertising campaign, and after sending Drew Lander cantering up and down Dickson street a couple of times on a stately nag, all old Will had to do was sit back and rake in the Pi Phis' and Chi Omegas' money. And yet they call Kent Kerby a financial genius!

PHILOSOPHY OF JIM ANDERSON AND JEW WISEMAN: If you are a whole lot smart, you will never edit a Razorback.

And talking about financiers, don't forget Warren G. Furry, the giant oil magnet. It seems that Annabel's brother-in-law down in Texas needed an engineer to locate his wild-cat well, so he ropes in Furry, Georgia Technician. The arrangements, it seems, were that Furry was to get all expenses and 1 per cent of the proceeds. Well, the gusher blew in last fall, and W. G., anticipating the riches of Rockefeller, ran his face for many dollars in St. Louis, Chicago, Amarillo, etc. And now old Fuzzy is holding the sack, because no one would buy his oil due to an oversupply of the market. Well, it was the Arkansas Traveler and not wise old Furry who suffered.

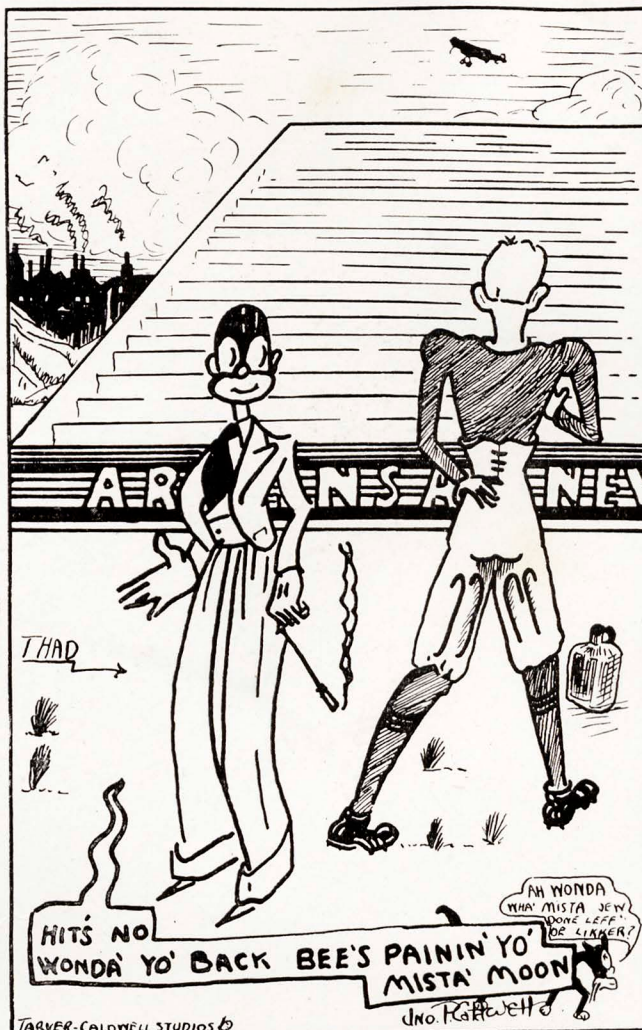

ANNABELL W. G. Furry

INTELLIGENCE TEST

1. Who is the oldest, Stits Hays, Dean Droke or Socrates Sadler?
2. Who wrote "The Verdict?"
3. Where does Willie Erp get his information?
4. Will Betty Tolson get Sammie Vault's pin if Sammie ever gets initiated?
5. Why did Jeff Gatlin call up Sadie P. Edwards one bleak March night?
6. Why did the Pi Beta Phis censor Miss Vivien Tatum for hanging advertisements for doctors on the lodges' official bulletin board?
7. Why did Jim Bates pin Nell Braselton?
8. Who selected the Razorback beauties?
9. Why did Wilda Mills leave school?
10. Does Carson Boothe know that Frank Goodwin has been late-dating him all year?

(Answers will be published in next year's Razorback.
Cancel your orders in advance).

And it's no wonder that the Pi K. A.'s can never win a football game as long as they have J. Norris Moon in the lineup.

And on the left we have that eminent coffee planter, Leonard Carson, who, according to that veracious sheet, the Arkansas Traveler, as edited by Horace Ivan Cate, superintended a vast plantation in Brazil at the age of 13, I believe it was. This A. P. photo shows Mr. Carson in his native state, descending from his jungle home to supervise the work of his employees.

We don't know all the details, but somehow or another, Hiram McConnell's parents do not approve of him going with Miss Julia Fletcher, the Lonoke Pi Phi with the beautiful teeth, and tonsils. Maybe it's the drain on the McConnell family bank account, and maybe it's something else—who are we to know?

And while we're on the McConnells: We understand that Violet Richardson will consider a date with any Lambda Chi except Johnnie, who she says is the most aggressive little man on earth.

The End—But Not of The Book.

Higher education is not what you remember but what you are able to think out for yourself. Among the important subjects not in the curriculum comes how to dress.

Your individual make-up, your manner and disposition need proper expression to be regarded as being in good taste.
